DANIELS NOT BLAMED FOR RIOT OF SAILORS IN SEATTLE STREETS

Socialist Leader Says It Was Sensational and Exaggerated Account of Speech in Seattle Newspaper

DAMAGE BY BLUEJACKETS IS ESTIMATED AT $6,000

Police Offered No Resistance and Men From Warships Held High Carnival With Socialists and I. W. W.'s

(By Associated Press.)

SEATTLE, Wash., July 19.—While officers of the Pacific fleet reserve of the United States navy were dancing at the army and navy ball in the state armory late last night and early today, several hundred of their sailors and marines were marching through the streets of Seattle denouncing the Industrial Workers of the World and the red flag, and sacking and burning Socialist and Industrial Workers headquarters. In their excitement they demolished a Salvation Army meeting room before learning that they had mistaken the place.

The city headquarters of the "Moderate Socialists" and the "Radical Socialists" were raided and the books and furniture carried into the street and burned. A Socialist news stand on the principal street corner of the city was destroyed, and the big meeting room of the Industrial Workers of the World, in the southern part of the city, was stripped of its belongings, which were thrown from a second story window and burned in the streets.

NO POLICE RESISTANCE

The police offered no resistance. Some of the officers said that all the force was busy handling crowds attending the Golden Potlatch festivities, and no reserves were available to cope with the rioters.

Hat bands of the cruisers Charleston, Colorado and California were most numerous among the raiding sailors. A few uniformed members of the Washington naval militia joined in, but sailors made up most of the mob. Actual destruction of property was carried on by uniformed men, including a number of petty officers. The damage is estimated at $6,000.

A report was widely circulated today that Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels, in a speech at the Rainier club, this city, had taken the Industrial Workers of the World as his subject, and had declared that they and all other believers in the red flag should be driven from the country. Those who heard the address of the secretary say that it was exceedingly moderate and had no reference to any local trouble. Nor did he at any time mention the Industrial Workers.

A street fight Thursday night at an Industrial Workers' meeting, in which three soldiers were beaten, had been represented to the naval men as a direct attack upon the service. All day some sort of trouble had been expected.

RIOTING STARTED EARLY.

The rioting began before dark. At first only a dozen sailors were engaged, but later the number increased to probably 300. The crowd continued marching through the streets until after midnight, waving American flags and yelling defiance at the Industrial Workers of the World.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels said: It would not be fair to ask him to discuss the outbreak because he knew nothing about it. Concerning his speech at the Rainier club, in which he gloried the stars and stripes and condemned the red flag, he said:

"What I said last night concerning patriotism had no reference to any local situation. In fact, I do not know anything about local troubles, if you have any. I did not mention the Industrial Workers of the World, nor did I know that organization had obtained a foothold here. I confess that my brief talk on the flag was not made here for the first time, but was a repetition from my recent address at Erie, Pa."

ADMIRAL REGRETS RIOT.

Rear Admiral Reynolds, commander of the reserve fleet, expressed regret at the outbreak, of which he had heard only indefinite rumor. The admiral continued:

"While I was at dinner with Secretary Daniels on the West Virginia, word came from Chief Bannick warning me that he feared there might be trouble between the sailors and the Industrial Workers. I at once sent a patrol of thirty men ashore, armed with night sticks. They were instructed to round up such disorderly men as might be found and send them to their ships."

SOCIALIST LEADER TALKS.

Millard Price, Socialist leader, whose news stand was wrecked early in the night, said the loss to the Socialists would be about $2,000.

"The Socialist party is a national political party and has nothing to do with the red flag," said Price. "I think the riot resulted from the way Secretary Daniels' speech was reported by one of the newspapers. The sailors were invited to violence and, once started, they did not recognize the difference between a national political party like the Socialists and an unorganized crowd like the Industrial Workers of the World."

International Campaign to Be Waged Against Diseases of All Nations

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 19.—The greatest interest has been manifested here in the reference made by Walter H. Page, the American ambassador, in his speech at the banquet given in his honor at the Anglo-Saxon club Thursday night, to the establishment of a fund of $100,000,000, to be devoted to an international health campaign.

The foundation was established by a number of wealthy men, the income to be devoted to the study and cure of diseases among native races in all parts of the world.

LANDLADY BLAMES HER BOARDER FOR MYSTERIOUS FIRE

G. A. Vaughan Held by Police in Connection With Early Morning Fire at East Hunter Street Boarding House

DECLARES VAUGHAN HAD OFTEN THREATENED HER

Proprietress of Boarding House Says Alarm Followed Row, and She Asks Arrest of Her Boarder

G. A. Vaughan, aged twenty-three years, collector for the Boston Trading company, 53 1-2 East Alabama street, is held by the police in connection with their investigation of a mysterious fire at the residence at 256 East Hunter street, about 7 o'clock Saturday morning.

Vaughan was arrested at the scene of the fire on the complaint of Mrs. A. C. Clapper, whose boarding house was in flames.

He was rushed to police headquarters by Call Officer George Watson, and cocketed under the blanket charge of suspicion.

According to the police, Mrs. Clapper tells a story to the effect that for some time Vaughan has been boarding with her. Recently they had had a number of "rows," in the course of which he has threatened violence a number of times.

Saturday morning about 6:30 o'clock they had another row, more violent than any in the past. The trouble was occasioned, according to the police, by some dispute over a $20 coat which Vaughan is said to have given the proprietor of the boarding house. Following the wordy war, Vaughan breakfasted in silence and then went to his room. He remained a short time, according to the story related to the police, and then left for his work. Ten minutes later a fire, which Mrs. Clapper says originated in the closet of Vaughan's room, was discovered. Mrs. Clapper called the fire department, and while the firemen were fighting the blaze she says that Vaughan called her over the phone to ask if everything was all right. She told him that the house was on fire, and he rushed to the residence, where the call officer placed him under arrest.

Vaughan, from his cell at headquarters, says that he called Mrs. Clapper because he had an engagement with her he had found, on arriving at his office, that he could not keep.

To Detective Eugene Coker, who was sent from headquarters to investigate the fire, Mrs. Clapper said that about a week ago her boarder, Vaughan, tried to poison her because he was jealous of her.

At that time she says she was ill, and Vaughan was asked to bring her a glass of water. Instead of one glass, she says, he brought two, and tried to force her to drink from one of the glasses, at the bottom of which she says she saw a whitish powder.

Vaughan, who has been grilled by the detectives, admits that he brought Mrs. Clapper a drink of water at the time mentioned, but swears that he brought only one glass and that it was nothing except plain water.

Mrs. Clapper is separated from her husband, and during the grilling the detectives charged the prisoner with being responsible for the separation. This charge also was denied by Vaughan.

When the detectives bring Vaughan to trial they will charge, it is said, that Vaughan tried to fire the house because of his jealousy of its owner.

WALLS OF WHITE HOUSE GET NEW COAT OF TINTS

Many Improvements Being Made During Absence of Mrs. Wilson and Daughters

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Advantage is being taken of the absence of Mrs. Wilson and her daughters, to touch up and freshen the white house. Painters now are at work reviving the east room, and in touching up the walls and ceiling. No changes are being made either in the decorative or color scheme. Other improvements which will be completed before the return of the absent members of the executive family, will include a remodeling of the attic, to provide for an enlargement of the servants' quarters and the installation of a shower bath in the basement for the president. In addition there will be a general house cleaning which was not possible in the spring because of the incident to the change of administration.

Two Women Fight Near Five Points

A fight between two women in the glaring sun at the hottest moment of the day at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon on Peachtree in front of No. 37, awakened Five Points from its heat lethargy.

One woman was standing on the sidewalk talking with a man, say casual eye-witnesses of the unique affair.

Another woman, rather small, stepped up and confronted the couple.

"You're taking my husband away from me, and I've told you not to talk to them," said the little woman. And without further parley she hit the other in the face.

At that the larger woman threw a bottle of medicine or some like solution at her assailant, the stuff smashing upon the dress of the aggressor.

The little woman was taken into the store at No. 37, and the other walked away hurriedly with the man. No arrest was made. The police came later.

It was said that the man with the larger woman was not the other's husband, and that the husband was not present.

YEAR'S HEAT RECORD MADE SATURDAY AT 1 O'CLOCK; 98 DEGREES

78 Degrees at 5 o'Clock Saturday Morning, Lowest Since Friday—Night One of Hottest on Record

DOWNTOWN WORKERS OVERCOME BY HEAT

One Man Prostrated at Wheel of Automobile—Negro Convict Killed Saturday by Heat at Bellwood Camp

Saturday was the hottest day of the year in Atlanta.

At 1 o'clock in the afternoon the thermometer had climbed to 98 degrees, and there was pretty good chance of it going a little higher. But the weather bureau stopped there. That was enough. The men who dope out Atlanta's weather for her went home and got their hot weather negligee for two or three hours. They expected to return to the offices of the bureau later in the afternoon and take one peep at the mercury.

But Atlanta didn't have to be told that the day was hot. The whole town knew it. In shaded some districts, where cool weather endures nearly all the time, it was warm. And downtown, in places where one never overlooks the fact when summer comes around, it was sizling. If one got up out of his chair for a few minutes, then sat in it again, he felt like he had sat upon a stove top.

Men and animals suffered alike—particularly the animals, which cannot get a drink whenever they want it and must stay in the sun whether they're resting or working.

Several men were overcome by the heat in the downtown district. In nearly every instance they recovered after friends had bathed their temples and wrists with ice water and fanned them awhile.

The women did not suffer from the heat nearly so much as the men—perhaps because the women dress more sensibly in summer than men do.

C. L. Walton, of 16 Ashby street, was driving his automobile downtown when the heat overcame him and he had to be assisted from the car. Grady ambulance took him to the hospital, where physicians worked over him for a few minutes and announced later that he would come around all right.

On Friday, when the maximum temperature was recorded as 97.3 degrees, one human was killed by the heat. He was Charley Stevens, a negro convict quartered at the Bellwood camp in Fulton county. He was struck down about 11 o'clock, and died a few minutes later in the camp hospital.

Friday night was one of the hottest on record in Atlanta. The lowest temperature during the night was not reached until 5 o'clock Saturday morning, and that was only 78. Then it began to climb again. By 7 o'clock it was 80. At 8 o'clock it had jumped to 86. At 9 it stood at 91. At 10 o'clock it was 93; at 11 o'clock, 95; at noon, 96, and at 1 o'clock, 98.

The hottest nights on record in Atlanta are July 10 and 11, 1872, when the minimum temperatures were 81 degrees, just 3 degrees higher than Friday night. It has been many a year since a night that hot was seen.

But at that, Atlanta was cool in comparison with some other parts of the country.

A dispatch from Berkley, Ga., told of a death in Carlton, near there, because of the excessive heat.

In Louisville, Ky., after claiming a toll of fifteen lives in two days, the heat was broken by a rainstorm early Saturday morning.

The Atlanta weather bureau prediction for the city is: Thunderstorms, Saturday night or Sunday.

That means cooler weather.

New Heat Records At Anniston, Ala.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ANNISTON, Ala., July 19.—Persons who have lived here for several years state that this is the hottest summer Anniston has ever experienced, and figures heard today by Forecaster William, son, of the Anniston weather bureau, seem to bear out this statement. It is seldom that the temperature goes as high as 98 in Anniston, but this record was reached twice during June, and from June 15 to July 5, twenty-five days, the maximum temperature fell below 90 only once. From June 16 to July 17 or thirty-three days, the maximum temperature fell below 90 only five times. The percentage of sunshine for June and July of last year, as compared with this year, was 70 and 65, as against 35 and 50 of this year.

DULUTH WINS RATE CASE FROM RAILROADS

Substantial Portion of Fight for Reduction of Freight Rates Won

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Duluth, Minn., won a substantial portion of its freight rate fight before the interstate commerce commission today, when a reduction or class rates to that city from the eastern points was ordered, and the present rates were held to be discriminatory. Duluth's contention that rates on lake-and-rail traffic from the east ought to break at is wharves, however, was not sustained.

REVENUE SERVICE EXAMS WILL BE HELD AUG. 16

Announcement Made Affects Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Macon and Savannah

BY RALPH SMITH.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19.—All members of the Georgia delegation today received announcements from W. H. Osborn, commissioner of internal revenue, that examinations will be held in Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Macon and Savannah on August 16, to prepare an eligible list for appointments in the revenue service.

It is held that commissions of all deputies expire automatically with that of the collectors, and it is optional with the new collector whether he reappoints former deputies or from the eligible list.

The following is one of the letters, which shows on its face that Democrats for the first time in many, many years will have an opportunity to secure places in the revenue service in Georgia:

"House of Representatives.
"Washington, D. C.

"Sir:—On June 24, 1913, this office requested the civil service commission to hold additional examinations in the state of Georgia for the purpose of securing additional eligibles for appointment to positions in the internal revenue service.

"I have been advised by the commission that the examinations requested will be held on August 16, 1913, at the following places:

"Atlanta, Augusta, Columbus, Macon and Savannah, and that all applications for entrance to said examinations should be in the hands of the civil service commission by August 11, 1913.

"As numerous inquiries have been made relative to appointments in the internal revenue service, and as the commissions of deputy collectors of internal revenue automatically expire with that of the collectors by whom they were commissioned and appointed, and as it is possible that many new collectors may not elect to recommission the old deputies, it is suggested that you give this information wide publicity, in view of the fact that all positions in the internal revenue service are within the classified civil service and appointments thereto are made from the eligible registers of the civil service commission.

"Respectfully,
"W. H. OSBORN,
"Commissioner."

SECRETARY OF WAR PAYS MEMPHIS QUICK VISIT

(By Associated Press.)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 19.—Secretary of War Garrison, his chief of staff, Major General Leonard Wood, and several other army officers of high rank, on a tour of inspection of army posts, arrived in the city today. They were met by committees composed of the city officials and members of the Business Men's club.

After breakfast at the Country club, Secretary Garrison was taken in an automobile over the proposed route of the government highway which will connect the city parks with the National cemetery.

The party will leave the city at noon with Little Rock as their objective point.

LITTLE GIRL FLAGS A TRAIN, SAVES PASSENGERS AND CREW

Edith Brown, Living Near Grantville, Ga., Prevents Wreck on Atlanta and West Point Railroad

Engineer Charlie McDade, of the A. & W. P. whisteled for the worst curve on the road. It was late in the afternoon and his train was behind time.

Leaning far out of the cab window he strained his eyes at the point where the rails gleamed for an instant and disappeared around a bank of red dirt. He glanced at the gauge. The old boat was making 32 miles an hour.

As the wheels clanked across the trestle McDade suddenly put on the air brakes and closed the throttle. He had seen her, a little girl with hair flying in the wind, standing just in front of the curve and waving a red blanket from side to side.

Iron snarled against iron. The engine roared around the bend and stopped. Behind it ten cars packed with passengers stopped, too.

Engineer and fireman leaped from the cab and ran down the track. Some dozen feet from the nose of the cowcatcher they found it, a bad washout which would have dumped them all into eternity in another second.

The little girl was Edith Brown, aged 14 years, of R. F. D. route No. 1, near Grantville, Ga. She herself had discovered the washout, had hurried homeward, taken a red blanket, and returned in time to save the train.

When the train crew got back in Atlanta Friday they brought the news of her heroism.

Engineer McDade, who lives at 61 Ashland avenue, Conductor Cline, and Road Foreman Musgrove, who was on the engine at the time, have raised a subscription among the train crew and when next they stop at Grantville they will present the little girl with a beautiful gold locket.

The place where the body was found is about 160 miles from the point where the boy was drowned.

Indict Denver Papers For Printing "Indecent" Miss "September Morn"

(By Associated Press.)

DENVER, Col., July 19.—Executives of four of Denver's daily newspapers were indicted yesterday on charges of printing certain advertisements of medicines, in violation of a state law, "indecent" pictures of bathing girls and incidentally reproducing the painting, "September Morn." The charges were filed by the Citizens' Protective league.

Anniston Is Delighted Over "September Morn"

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ANNISTON, Ala., July 19.—For the nonce Anniston has forgotten that she is in the cellar of the Georgia-Alabama league; slit skirts, silhouette gowns, the turkey trot and the tango and other problems have been shoved aside while the city authorities grapple with the universay problem of "September Morn."

"September Morn" was put on display in an Anniston store Friday morning. Neither Mayor Wikle nor Chief of Police Shiretzki, nor any of the aldermen has as yet assumed the role of city commissioner to rob Miss Morn of her glory, but local art lovers are on the qui vive lest she be barred from public gaze.

Wife's Ministry Fails To Save D. D. McCall, Died Saturday Morning

Despite the constant and devoted nursing of his wife, who, after a separation of two years, returned to him when she heard of his illness, D. D. McCall died at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning at an Atlanta hospital.

He had been ill about four weeks, and from the first the physicians stated that there was but little hope of recovery. He sent for Mrs. McCall, and when she learned how seriously ill he was, she remained with him, and tried to pull him through the crisis. At all hours of the night and day she was by his bed, and with all grievances forgotten, made every effort to nurse him to health.

Mr. McCall was fifty-four years old. His illness followed a succession of business troubles. He was head of the Georgia Motor company, which failed a short while ago, and other troubles followed upon the bankruptcy.

The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 3:30 from the chapel of the Burkett-Simmons undertaking establishment, and the interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mrs. McCall only survives her husband.

JURY IS DETERMINED TO CONSIDER A BILL AGAINST JIM CONLEY

Protest of Solicitor Fails to Stop Session to Consider Phagan Evidence on Monday

DORSEY STILL BELIEVES JURY WON'T INDICT

Solicitor Says Frank Defense Wants Jury to Try Him Drawn From the Grand Jury List

Grand Jurors Who Will Consider Conley's Case

This is the Fulton county grand jury which has been called to meet Monday over the protest of the solicitor to take up the case of Jim Conley, the negro sweeper at the National Pencil factory:

W. D. Beatie, foreman.
T. C. Whitner.
John S. Spalding.
W. C. Carroll, East Point.
H. B. Ferguson.
Garnet McMillan, East Point.
Edward H. Inman.
A. W. Farlinger.
M. A. Fall.
Julius M. Skinner.
Oscar Elsas.
George Bancroft.
W. H. Glenn.
S. E. McConnell.
Thomas J. Buchanan.
Samuel A. Carson.
Eugene Oberdorfer.
A. Q. Adams.
W. O. Stamps.
W. T. Ashford.

There are only twenty citizens on the grand jury which has been called to meet Monday by Foreman W. D. Beattie to consider indicting James Conley, the negro sweeper, for the murder of Mary Phagan.

As it takes eighteen grand jurors to form a quorum, it is extremely likely that when the body meets at 10 o'clock there will not be enough members to proceed with business.

The lack of a quorum, when the meeting is first called, however, will not halt procedure on the case if the grand jurors present wish to go ahead, for the foreman can then call on a judge of the superior court to summons talesmen grand jurors to complete the panel.

These talesmen will be brought immediately to the grand jury room and the consideration of the proposed indictment can proceed immediately.

The average grand jury is made up of twenty-three men in order that five may be absent and jury work still proceed. However, as this is an "off term," and it was generally supposed that the grand jury would have little business, only twenty citizens were empanelled.

GRAND JURY DETERMINED.

Solicitor Dorsey refused to make any statement Saturday saying that he had nothing to add to the interview published exclusively in Friday's Journal.

The statement that the lawyers acting for the defense of Leo M. Frank, accused of the murder of Mary Phagan and soon to be tried, have asked the judges of the superior court to order that veniremen for possible jury serv-

NO TERROR OF SEA LIKE THE ICEBERG

Captains of Revenue Cutters Make Interesting Report of Observations

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Icebergs are the real terrors of the sea, giving no warning of their approach in thick weather, and the only rational course for a navigator to adopt when his ship is in a fog in their vicinity is to stop and wait for the haze to lift.

This, in effect, is the burden of the reports Captains C. E. Johnston and A. S. Gamble, of the cutters Seneca and Pilmt, which from April to July patrolled the trans-Atlantic lane of travel, to prevent a repetition of the Titanic disaster.

"The only safe way to navigate in regions of icebergs," warned Captain Johnston, "is to stop during thick weather and to run very slowly on dark nights."

He refutes the prevalent theory that a sudden drop in temperature means the proximity of icebergs, and said little or no changes in temperature is noticeable. Owing to the blinding effect of a searchlight on the observer, Captain Johnston said he would not recommend its general use for a vessel underway.

Icebergs cannot be detected with any degree of certainty by attempting to get an echo from a ship's whistle or bells, according to Captain Johnston. A perpendicular berg may give an echo from some directions, but a slanting face deflects the sound. About 90 per cent of the Seneca's efforts to get echoes were futile.

Captain Johnston advises placing the lookout of a vessel at night and in hazy weather as low down as possible. In a very large ship, he said, a lookout posted high on the vessel might have an obstructed view on a very dark night and overlook an iceberg half a mile away.

The presence of murres, the officer declared, indicated the presence of ice-berg, but he advised mariners to pay no attention to other birds. In some instances he found the bergs literally covered with birds, principally murres, but on others there was not a bird in sight.

WANTS CHILEAN YOUTHS TO STUDY IN AMERICA

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Destrous of contributing to the good relations existing between his country and the United States, the Chilean minister of foreign affairs has suggested that Chilean youths, after receiving their diplomas hereafter shall come to the United States to complete their education along practical and technical lines. The Chilean government would bear the transportation expenses both ways.

The information reached the state department today from Minister Fletcher at Santiago. Mr. Fletcher said the proposal had been formally made to Colonel Henry L. Kinkaid, president of the delegation from the Boston chamber of commerce, that recently visited Chile and other Central and South American countries. In his report Mr. Fitcher says:

"These youths after returning to Chile will be the best friends of the United States, and at the same time many of them might become the most satisfactory agents or representatives in their country of those firms in whose employ they are."

NATIONAL GUARDSMAN SETS MARCHING RECORD

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Private Henry A. Paetow, a driver of battery E, First field artillery, New York national guard, believes he has proved that there are at least some men in the mounted service who can make forced marches with as much show of endurance as the men of the regular infantry.

Paetow succeeded yesterday in reaching Montauk Point, the eastern county of Long Island, where his battery mates are encamped, after marching alone the 123 miles from New York in 47 hours, an hour less than he had set for the task. Much of the country through which he had to pass is so rough and sandy that hardly any of the officers thought the feat possible.

The young guardsman carried his full equipment. On the way he encountered a blinding rainstorm, which raged for several hours and also fought his way through many swarms of mosquitoes.

Major General O'Ryan, who is reviewing the maneuvers at Montauk, praised the young guardsman for his enthusiasm and hardihood.

LIGHTHOUSE SERVICE TO GROW OWN TIMBER

Forest Service Prepares to Plant Timber Trees for Government Use

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The lighthouse service, so far as the Great Lakes are concerned, purposes to grow its own timber for the manufacture of spar buoys, piling and the other wood essentials to the service. In this the service will be assisted by the forest service, and expert foresters are preparing to make an investigation of the reservations on which the light-houses stand with a view to their forest station.

An investigation already made by the forest service has disclosed that the light-house reservations in the lumber states of Michigan and Wisconsin alone total nearly 5,500 acres. On several of these reservations white and Norway pine will be planted, and cedar and pine on the others.

The work involves co-operation of the two services of the government, for the planting of trees in positions where they might obscure the beacon lights would prove a serious menace to navigation. It is believed two or three of the reservations will have to be left entirely bare, as at present.

TRIED TO GO TO BED ON BENCH IN DEPOT

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Efforts are being made to get into communication with the friends of a man claiming to be Edward J. Blackburn, of 846 Carteret avenue, Trenton, N. J., and who today is an inmate of the Washington asylum for observation as to his sanity.

The man, well dressed and apparently prosperous, created consternation in the union station by attempting to disrobe and go to bed on a bench. Previously he demanded of station officials that they turn over to him his wife and family, who, he said, had been kidnaped. He supposed Blackburn claims to be a wealthy artist and inventor.

JUDGE VINSON TO BEGIN CAMPAIGN AT EARLY DATE

Baldwin County May Put Three Candidates for Congress in Race

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 19.—Baldwin county may furnish three candidates for congress next year in the person of Judge Carl Vinson, Solicitor Joseph E. Pottle and Colonel J. D. Howard. The former is the only one who has openly announced, but it is understood that Colonel Pottle is contemplating entering the contest, and Colonel Howard has long been considered a probable candidate.

It is announced that Judge Vinson will begin an aggressive campaign at once, and Mr. Howard, who is a native of McDuffie county and still has large business interests there, may also begin to actively push his claims. The situation is extremely interesting in view of the fact that, though Baldwin county was once the seat of state government and many of its citizens were learned in statecraft, it has not had a congressman since the war, but now three aspirants may seek the office.

The senator had protested personally against the change and had forwarded to Mr. Burleson a protest from the McKinley club, of Canton, Ohio.

N. Y. SMOKE ORDINANCE KNOCKED OUT BY COURT

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 19.—New York may rival Pittsburg as "the smoky city" if a decision rendered yesterday by the court of special sessions, declaring the city's anti-smoke ordinance unconstitutional, is upheld by the higher courts. This possibility was cited by city council while defending the ordinance in a case against the New York Edison company, accused of burning soft coal. The court held that the ordinance was too sweeping, prevented the pursuit of a lawful occupation, and that the issuance of smoke from the company's chimneys did not constitute a crime.

Sea Lion Goes on Lark; Smashes Plate Glass Holds Crowd at Bay

(By Associated Press.)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 19.—Cambridge had a real sea lion hunt last night. The animal came up out of the Charles river basin and invaded an East Cambridge street, where it flopped about, barking loudly, and frightened a crowd which retreated before it. Attracted by the light of a store, it leaped four feet through the window, smashing the heavy plate glass. The proprietor of the store, Isaac Friedman, who was counting his cash, left in a hurry, while the animal raised havoc in the place.

A small squad of police reserves tried to confine it in a packing box, and in a big sheet of canvas, but it smashed one and ate its way through the other. Finally men from the Boston aquarium lassoed it and sent it to that institution.

There it was said to be a good specimen of a California sea lion, about three years old and weighing more than 200 pounds. "A rare visitor in New England waters," one of the officials said.

Three People Injured and Loss Is Estimated at $15,000

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., July 19.—Fire of unknown origin early today destroyed a large boarding house on Elizabeth street, causing damages estimated at $15,000, with half the loss covered by insurance.

The house was occupied by W. A. Jones, Jr. Three persons were injured, none seriously, and a score were forced to flee from the burning structure before they had a chance to get on their clothes. The injured are L. B. Boggs, city electrician; A. C. Monroe, fireman, hurt about head and back; F. D. Reedler, fireman, burned around face and neck and on the arms.

The house was the property of L. B. Harrell and his loss is placed at $7,000. The loss suffered by Mr. Jones is estimated at $7,000. Boarders left their personal effects, one man losing a handsome diamond and over $100 in cash. Several years ago the same house was badly damaged by fire, the entire roof being burned off, and before that lightning struck the east wing of the house and splintered it badly.

PEACHTREE PROPERTY IS PRAISED BY U. S. COURT

Unprecedented Rise in Value Common Knowledge, Says Judge Newman

Judge Newman, of the federal court, on yesterday decided in favor of the defendants in the case of E. D. Thomas, trustee in bankruptcy, against C. L. Truitt, H. A. and R. A. Almand and L. B. Jackson. Incidentally the court paid a tribute to the value of property on Peachtree street.

Mr. Thomas charged a fradulent transfer of property from Truitt to Almand, mentioning among other parcels a lot of the Crass subdivision on Peachtree south of Currier. He pointed out that although Almand had an equity of less than $10,000 in the lot, it brought $1,000 a foot.

The court decided that there had been nothing irregular in this and the other transfers. Referring to the Peachtree property, he said:

"This considerable profit was due to the unprecedented rise in value of Peachtree property, which is a matter of common knowledge in Atlanta and which everybody admits."

SON MISSING, MOTHER FEARS SOME FOUL PLAY

Walking the floor of her little cottage at Carrollton, Ga., day and night is a mother tortured by the fact that the boy who has written to her every week for two years cannot be found, nor can any clue to his whereabouts be scented.

The boy is Eufus R. Martin, a graduate of the University of Georgia and a chief engineer for the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph company. For seven months mother has not heard a word from him, and fearing foul play, she had used every effort to discover what has become of him, but in vain.

The young man's grandfather, M. R. Russell, of 1 East Fair street, Atlanta, has consulted officials of the telephone company and written to the chief of detectives and police in Birmingham, near which city young Martin's construction camp was located. People at the camp say that he left there about two months ago, the very time when he last wrote to his mother. She is prostrated over his disappearance, as she says that heretofore he never failed to write to her regularly. He is twenty-seven years of age, six feet one inch tall and weighs 175 pounds.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Tax Receiver J. K. Dorsey, of Clarke, Offers Suggestion for Tax Reform.

J. H. Dorsey, tax receiver for Clarke county, makes a suggestion which he believes, if adopted by the legislature, will prove a progressive step in the direction of tax reform.

Mr. Dorsey thinks that if the laws were changed so that the digests for tax returns were opened on February 1 instead of April 1, as at present, and if they were closed on May 1 instead of July 1, it would be possible for the legislature to have reliable information upon which to base its appropriations.

Relative to his suggestion, he says:

"As it now is, the digest opens April 1 and closes July 1, and the tax receivers have thirty days to make out the three digests, one for the ordinary, one for the comptroller general and one for the tax collector.

"Under the present plan, before all the digests of the state can be corrected and consolidated, the legislature will have adjourned. Therefore, the legislature has nothing upon which to base its appropriations, as none of the digests for any of the counties are completed while the legislature is in session.

"Neither the legislature, the comptroller general nor any one else in the state knows whether there will be an increase in the returns before they are consolidated. The legislature, therefore, is groping in the dark, and does not know what appropriations it can safely make. Now, if the date should be changed for opening the digests from April 1 to February 1, and close them May 1, giving tax receivers until June 15 to complete their records and file the digests with the comptroller general, then by the first of July the comptroller general could have the digests consolidated so that the legislature would know exactly the total amount of the tax returns of the state for the current year."

The convicts were the "guests of honor," and speeches were made by county commissioners and other prominent citizens of Jefferson county.

Yes, Yes, They're Wearing 'Em Up in Old Dalonega, Too

The Dahlonega Nugget thinks that whatever else the legislature may do it most certainly should pass laws regulating the garb of women and prohibiting the sale of cannon crackers and toy pistols. These modern transparent and slit-up-the-front frocks shock the editor of the Nugget.

Relative to an anti-cannon cracker and toy pistol law the Nugget says:

"Why don't the legislature stop the sale of cannon crackers and toy pistols in Georgia? As it is, many children are being crippled and killed annually. This is a matter of much more importance than the game law. If you don't want birds and squirrels killed or hurt, why should children be allowed to be maimed and killed?

Congressman Tribble Working For Federal Aid to Drain Swamps

Georgians generally are in sympathy with the efforts which are being made by Congressman S. J. Tribble, of the Eighth district, to obtain federal aid in draining the swamp lands of this state. There are thousands of acres of such land in Georgia which could be reclaimed at comparatively small cost and which would produce great crops, thereby adding to the wealth of the state.

Congressman Tribble has asked for a government appropriation of $300,000 to start this work. Commenting upon his drainage bill he says:

"The continuous increase of swamp and wet lands has become dangerous to the health of localities, in many instances depopulating once prosperous sections of the state. The government has spent millions on arid lands in the west, and has thereby made great and prosperous states and added much wealth to the nation. I can see no more reason for aiding the west to reclaim arid lands than for helping the south to drain the swamp and wet lands that will not only add wealth to her citizens and the nation, but give better health to all the people."

$15,000 to be Appropriated for Work of Boys' Corn Clubs

The appropriations committee of the house a few days ago favored a $15,000 appropriation for the boys' corn clubs of Georgia.

A subcommittee of the appropriations committee had cut the appropriation for the State Agricultural college from $100,000 to $85,000. Later the full committee met and decided to restore the $15,000 to the college, with the stipulation, however, that the entire amount be used for corn club work only.

There was a mistaken idea that this amount was granted the district schools and the report had begun to gain credence until corrected by Chairman Crawford Wheatley, of the appropriations committee.

ATLANTA CIVIC LEAGUE TO CHANGE ITS NAME

It's to Be "The Woman's Suffrage League" in the Future, If You Please

The Atlanta Civic league has decided to change its name to the Woman's Suffrage league, believing the latter to indicate more clearly just what the purpose of the league is.

The organization, the first in the state for the furtherance of equal suffrage, was formed in the early 90's, with Mrs. F. Swift as president, its name being then the Woman's Suffrage association. In 1904 the name was changed to the Civic league, thinking the less aggressive title might be helpful.

Tuesday the members again decided to change the name to the Atlanta Suffrage league.

Cop's Speedometer Geared Too Fast; Fines Refunded

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 19.—Recorder Schwarz, of this city, has made a unique discovery, and, because of it, people who have been fined in the recorder's court recently are getting their money back.

The recorder had a great many complaints from those who were arrested for running their automobiles at an excessive speed that there was something wrong with the speedometer of the bicycle cop who timed them.

So frequent were these complaints that the recorder had the speedometer tested, and sure enough he found it was wrong. Now he is advertising a refund of all fines based upon the evidence of this little timing machine.

S. P. C. A. OF ATLANTA TO BECOME ACTIVE

Reported That It Will Commission Agent and Start Vigorous Campaign

Leading workers in the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals are said to be planning an early renewal of active work by their organization and are contemplating the issuance of a commission to an agent who can give his time to his duties.

The notable work done by the late Earl V. D. Haskell and, before him, by Jumbo Hunter, worked great reform of cruelty toward animals and stopped many abuses of the dumb brutes on the streets of Atlanta. The need for a strict supervision by the society is said to have grown more acute recently during the hot weather, horses and mules being driven all day without water, in ill-fitting harness, by drivers who belabor them mercilessly.

It is understood that a meeting of the society will be called soon to consider the naming of a representative for this work. Colonel Joseph F. Burke is president of the society, B. B. Crew is vice president, and Major Orville H. Hall is secretary. The Atlanta branch of the society was organized on July 7, 1875, with headquarters at 11 East Alabama street. George Hillyer was elected president, and the leading men of the city were represented among the vice presidents and executive committeemen and other officers.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, former Georgian heading an Illinois delegation, today asked Secretary Bryan to appoint Charles J. In view of the hostile relations among the Balkan States it has been suggested that it may not be possible to accredit one minister to all three as has been the custom.

Delegates from the large majority of chambers of commerce and boards of trade in the state will attend, and from towns that possess no organization like that, the mayor or their representatives will be the delegates.

Coca Cola Floods Gutters When Auto Truck Strikes Car

The gutters at the corner of Pine and Courtland streets were flooded Saturday morning about 9:30 o'clock, when a delivery truck loaded with bottled Coca-Cola hit a trolley car at the foot of the sharp little hill on Pine street.

W. E. Jones, driver of the truck, was cited to appear in police court Tuesday morning and answer the charge that he was driving recklessly.

The truck and the car collided at a right angle, the truck shattering the glass of the trolley car vestibule and damaging the metal work of the car considerably. The motorman escaped injury by a narrow margin. The truck was slightly damaged.

The plans now are being drawn by Hal Hentz, and will be submitted to the park board at its meeting in August. Work will be started about the middle of August, the plan being to spend this year only $2,500, and to complete the work next year.

This increase has come about since the last school census was taken, five years ago. At that time the total number of children of school age was 735,471.

Schlitz Brown Bottle Claims Authenticated

by Dr. Robert Wahl, President of the Wahl-Henius Institute of Fermentology. We reprint from his letter.

"Our observations, extending over the last twenty-five years, have convinced us beyond a doubt that exposure of beer to light has a very detrimental influence on its quality generally, but especially upon the flavor of the beer.

We have tested beers repeatedly in this direction, placing the bottles into direct sunlight, and testing the same after one, two, three and five minutes exposure, found that the beer with three and five minutes exposure became undrinkable, on account of the peculiar odor developed.

The detrimental effect of light upon beer can be successfully counteracted by the employment of brown or dark colored glass bottles, and such bottles are therefore recommendable."

He quotes famous authorities to corroborate his opinion

LEGISLATORS PLEASED WITH AUGUSTA COLLEGE

They Made Quick Trip Aboard Special, and Will Have Barbecue and Auto Ride

BY ESTES DOREMUS.

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 19.—The Georgia general assembly arrived here at noon, after an uneventful trip. The legislative special made record time, consuming but four and a half hours from Atlanta to Augusta.

Things were enlivened en route by the quartet led by Agricultural Commissioner J. D. Price. After serenading the governor, the singers took in every coach, and were received with more or less cordiality as the morning wore on.

The special, according to program, backed into the state medical college grounds shortly after noon, and the legislators were taken in groups through the new institution. That a favorable impression was made is evident from the expressions of surprise at the advancement the city has made.

On every hand is heard comment approving the action of the appropriations committee in giving the college the $30,000 it asked for in lieu of the $20,000 given it by the subcommittee specially appointed to care for separate state institutions. There is every evidence that both the house and senate will favor the committee report in so far as this school is concerned and vote for the appropriation as it stands.

The visitors left the college grounds at 2 o'clock for Carmichael's famous fishing club, where a barbecue will be served, and later will be taken for a ride over the city and through the magnificent roads of Richmond county.

Capitol Was Lonesome With Legislators Gone

With Governor Slaton, a majority of the members of the general assembly and many state house officials visiting Augusta Saturday, the capitol was all but deserted.

Those offices which were kept open closed at noon and the clerks took their usual half Saturday holiday.

A few of the members of the house and senate remained in Atlanta and these were at their desks in the legislative halls for a short while Saturday morning, engaged in writing letters to the folks at home.

LAWYER IS "TOTED" INTO COURT BY HIS BONDSMAN

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Marion T. Klinkscales, an attorney, sat in his cell in the district jail today, convicted that he was the worst treated practitioner who ever appeared before the local courts. His last appearance was dramatic and uncomfortable in the extreme. As the result of it he is waiting for some one with a $1,000 bail bond.

Klinkscales already was under bond for $500 in one case when he was indicted in a second case on a charge of embezzlement. His surety in the first case, Frank Johnson, learned of the second indictment and started on a hunt for him. The two men met in the corridors of the city hall. Heated language was followed by blows and Johnson, a big man, threw the lawyer over his shoulders and carried him into the criminal court, where Justice Gould was hearing an important case.

"I just thought I'd tote him in, judge," said Johnson, as he deposited his indignant and ruffled burden, none too gently before the bar.

Justice Gould demanded a $1,000 bond which Klinkscales could not produce.

BOHEMIAN FARMERS LIKE GEORGIA LANDS

A large colony of thrifty Bohemian farmers have, according to a letter received by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dan Hughes, picked out Georgia as a desirable state in which to locate.

The letter to Mr. Hughes came from J. A. Ubl, of Omaha, Neb., who stated that he was endeavoring to obtain between 10,000 and 25,000 acres of land in Georgia which would be available for general farming. Mr. Ubl said a colony of Bohemian agriculturalists wished to locate here.

Assistant Commissioner Hughes replied to the letter, suggesting that the land might be secured in south Georgia, and has also referred the letter to several south Georgia real estate men.

CHIEF BEAVERS PLAYS ROLE OF PEACEMAKER

Chief of Police Beavers played the role of peacemaker in recorder's court Saturday morning when he stopped a near-fight when E. W. Torrance of 354 Ponce de Leon avenue, disputed the word of his next door neighbor, W. A. Graham, who had been arrested at the former's request on the charge of letting a viscious dog run loose.

Torrance made a lunge at Graham. Graham dodged and the head of Officer O. R. Jones caught the blow. Here Chief Beavers steeped in and restored order.

The recorder fined Torrance $5.75 for contempt of court and dismissed the viscious dog charge against Graham.

INDICT ROME COPS FOR POISONING NEGRO'S DOG

Two Motorcycle Policemen Charged by Grand Jury—Dog-Catcher Acquitted

ROME, Ga., July 19.—Among the interesting indictments returned by the grand jury, which is now in session, are two against Officers Carlson and Climer, motorcycle police of the Rome force, charging them with poisoning a dog of John Wood, a negro, several weeks ago. The two officers deny that they are guilty.

There were a number of fin e dogs poisoned, perhaps forty in all, last month. A case was made against J. B. Dunn, the city dog catcher, but he was acquitted. At Dunn's trial it was brought out that Carlson and Climer had been in the neighborhood of the negro's house shortly before the dog was poisoned.

WILL TRY TO OVERRIDE MAYOR WOODWARD'S VETO

Effort Will Be Made to Put Through Tax Reorganization

An effort will be made Monday at the council meeting to pass over Mayor Woodward's veto the Nutting resolution providing for the reorganization of the city tax office, and also the Humphrey resolution appropriating $5 as payment for an option on the Destructor company to erect within twelve months an electric generating plant in connection with the crematory.

The generating plant was included in the plans for the new crematory, but was cut out because of lack of funds, the Destructor company agreeing to erect it within twelve months' time at the figures offered in the estimates for the crematory.

As it was suggested that there must be some valuable consideration to make the option binding, council agreed to set aside $5 for that purpose. When the resolution was turned over to Mayor Woodward he returned it without approving or vetoing it.

This being equivalent to a veto, council will take up the matter again Monday, and will probably pass the resolution, notwithstanding the mayor's action.

Ritual Murder Scandal

(Special Cable to The Journal.)

ST. PETERSBURG.—What is known as the "ritual murder case" in Russia has reached a new phase. It will be remembered that at Easterride in 1911 a boy named Yushinsky was found dead and mutilated in a cave near Kieff. The "Black Hundred" raised the monstrous charge that the crime had been committed by Jews anxious to obtain Christian blood for their Passover cakes. Following this, a clerk named Beilies was arrested and charged with the murder, but practically no evidence was brought and the first indictment was withdrawn. Nevertheless, Beilies was kept in prison and now a new form of indictment has been produced.

The new "evidence" goes no further in involving Beilies in the affair, but the indictment department of the Kieff Court of Justice has seen fit to approve the trial of Beilies, although both the president and reporter of the department have expressed their separate opinion that there is no shadow of evidence against him.

ANOTHER POLICE FINE REDUCED BY WOODWARD

Cuts Acting Recorder's Sentence to What Broyles Would Have Made It, He Says

With fine irony, Mayor Woodward reduced the police court sentence in George Poulas, a Greek, Friday, from $100 fine or thirty days in the stockade to $49 fine or twenty-nine days in the stockade, declaring that the Greek had been sentenced by Acting Recorder Pressley now wishing to make the extreme sentence in his court $49 or twenty-nine days in order to come under the limitation where executive clemency can reach.

Then, too, said the mayor in announcing Poulas' case, the only witness against him was a negro boy who had been discharged—a witness biased and prejudiced and hardly worth credence against the word of a white man.

At the same time Mayor Woodward issued a statement which he declares closes the controversy between himself and Judge Broyles over what the recorder regards as undue use of the pardoning power vested in the mayor's office.

"He doesn't hold his position by my vote, and I don't hold mine by his," said the mayor. "And if care nothing for him personally or otherwise. There is no love lost between us. I consider him irresponsible from a mental standpoint."

The mayor proceeded then to cite ten cases which, he said, the court of appeals reversed against the recorder, and which were reported by the chief of police to the city comptroller on one day, May 23, 1913.

In the case of George Poulas, several leading Greeks of the city, with Demetre Vafiadis, the Greek consul, at their head, appeared before the mayor Friday to urge clemency.

BRASS BAND TO PLAY AT BAPTIST TABERNACLE

Did you ever hear a big brass band out loose in front of a church on Sunday?

Never? Well, you should drop around to the Baptist Tabernacle Sunday morning. Mr. Smith, better known to the little tots in the children's department as "Mr. Lonnie," is going to give the children a treat. For one solid hour, 10 to 11, a brass band will pour its enormous melody all over the neighborhood, and about 300 little children will march about, waving flags, when Sunday school has been turned over entirely to these little folks, and they will make a pale day of it.

The grown ups will not be left out altogether, for, after the band concert, Prof. E. M. Poteat, of Furman university, will deliver an address. Governor Eaton was going to speak, but his trip to Augusta forced him to cancel the engagement.

THEATRES

FORSYTH—Vaudeville.
GRAND—Motion Pictures.
BIJOU—Tabloid Musical Comedy.

Britt Wood, Valerie Bergere and company, Metropolitan Minstrels, and the other acts that have created such an interest, and been responsible for such splendid entertainment at the Forsyth this week will conclude their engagements with matinee and night performances today.

The coming week promises three headliners, and four other features representing the cream of available talent in modern vaudeville.

The headline stars will be John F. Conroy, who with the assistance of two diving models, will present a magnificently staged act, using a massive tank containing fifty-five hundred gallons of water.

Deiro, the Italian piano-accordeonist, considered by his masters the peer of Sousa's band, and Lester, the great ventriloquist, are joint star attractions with the headliner.

Smith, Cook and Marie Branden, another well known vaudeville people, are on the bill.

Hotel a la Carte, which has been playing at the Bijou all week will close its engagement with tonight's performance. There will be the usual matinees this afternoon at 2:30 and 4.

New week's attraction, "Good Morning, Judge," is said to be an amusing production for popular prices. The plot, which serves a thread on which to hang some beautiful musical numbers and graceful dances, concerns a rich brewer who in his capacity as mayor of the village, acts as judge. The complications ensuing furnish the comedy, and plenty of it.

Opportunity presents itself today to Atlanta theatregoers to make reservation for reserved seats for the matinee and evening exhibitions of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables" at the Grand, all of the coming week. This photoplay will be the Grand's attraction commencing with Monday afternoon.

POLICE SHOOT NEGRO BOY, WHO RIFLED SLOT MACHINE

When he was shot in the foot, Phil Davis, negro, fourteen years old, quit trying to get away and surrendered to the police. Two other negroes, flushed by Plain Clothes Officers Allen and Gresham at work rifling a chewing gum slot machine, got away. The incident occurred about 3 a. m. Saturday at the corner of Houston and Hilliard streets, in front of the Dixie Pharmacy. The officers said the negroes showed fight, and that therefore they drew their guns and commenced firing.

Bryan M. Grant has struck oil. Not only Mr. Grant, but several of his associates as well, including D. C. Lyle, Myron C. Freeman, J. T. J. Cheshire and J. M. Fraser.

Mr. Grant and Mr. Lyle have gone to the scene and will make a detailed report on their return.

BELL HOUSE "BOYS" TO HAVE BARBECUE TODAY

Mrs. Emma Bell Will Be Honor Guest at Cold Springs 'Cue Grounds

Bell house "boys" from far and near were gathered Saturday for their second annual barbecue, to be held Saturday afternoon on the Cold Springs 'cue grounds, near East Point, Mrs. Emma Bell, the presiding genius now and for a number of years past over the destinies of the Bell house boys while they remained boys and were unmarried, will attend as the guest of honor. Last year's feast could not be present. This year she cut her vacation short in order to be there, and the boys intend to give her a reception that would make a president or a United States senator jealous.

It is expected that some 125 of the "boys" will be present.

A SINGER BECOMES A RICH MAN

A young singer suffering from Indigestion consulted the most celebrated European doctors and was told by a French specialist of a vegetable which had wonderful digestive properties. The singer made up a sauce in which to put much of the vegetable, and not only aided the digestion, but also took the place of any other sauce for table and kitchen use, and was delicious. This was shown to the great cooks of Europe and found to be marvelously unequalled. A company formed to manufacture the sauce, which was called Waw-Waw (an obsolete South American word for vegetable), and so great was the feeding power of the food it is now found throughout the world. A 25-cent bottle from your grocer will suffice to show how much more you will enjoy your food by adding Waw-Waw in the soups, cooking and with cold or hot meats, fish and salads, and at the same time see how very easily you digest your food.

Ask Your Grocer for Waw-Waw Sauce. H. L. SINGER CO., Wholesale Distributors.

Think of the umpire. He gets no summer vacation.

If it is hot in Atlanta, think what it must be at the summer resorts.

A Missouri Idea.

The Governor of Missouri has conceived the brilliant plan of calling out three hundred thousand patriotic citizens who will give two days' work to the construction and improvement of State highways. Thus, he hopes, a vast network of good roads will spring up in a twinkling and with scarcely a dollar's expense.

It would be an inspiring sight for this grand army of Missourians to sally forth from farms and shops and office buildings, all in the midsummer sun and in a ringing crusade of two brief days achieve what slower and less ingenious States require years to accomplish. An inspiring sight indeed! But what of the quality of the work thus performed?

Some waggish skeptic remarks that when the first rainstorm comes along, it will be well for the Governor to call his three hundred thousand citizens back into service to hold umbrellas over their new roads in order that they may not be washed away. Some such safeguard would, indeed, be necessary, for few tasks require more care in their preparation or more skill in their execution than that of road building.

Money or labor spent in the hasty or ill-considered construction of roads is wasted. Highway building calls for as much knowledge and supervision as house building. It must be conducted in accordance with a farsighted plan and with careful judgment in the selection of material. Each road, in order that it may render its due measure of service, must be a link in some great chain of roads. Hence the need of engineering skill and oversight in all such undertakings.

The Missouri Governor's plan is admirable in respect to the enthusiasm it seeks to arouse but otherwise it would prove costly and disappointing. It is necessary, to be sure, that public sentiment be awakened and stirred to the importance of good roads before anything can be accomplished in that great cause. It is this sentiment which makes possible the issuance of bonds and the employment of practical means for highway construction and maintenance. But after a good roads campaign has been launched and has stimulated a county or State, it must be followed by steady, scientific methods if its fruits are to ripen and continue.

Three hundred thousand citizens, convinced of the need and the value of good roads, would, however, accomplish marvels by turning their conviction to account at the polls and through legislative influence.

It is no comfort to read about the plans of the latest arctic expedition.

We haven't heard of the game warden being stirred to action by any big hauls of fish.

Among those who are optimistic about business conditions just now are the dealers in summer clothes and ice cream sodas.

Another Damper for Pessimists.

The man who tried to turn the sun to ice by fanning in its face with a peacock feather was scarcely more of a failure than those ill-inspired prophets of calamity who have been seeking to chill and becloud the country's business outlook. Despite their dire predictions of tariff reform and other liberal measures in the program of a progressive administration, times have continued prosperous and, indeed, have steadily grown more cheering. Big business has thriven; agriculture the nation over has been encouraged as seldom before; and now comes a report from the federal department of commerce which shows that for the fiscal year recently ended, the foreign trade of the United States exceeded all records.

Imports for this period aggregated a billion, eight hundred and twelve million, six hundred and twenty-one thousand, one hundred and sixty dollars, an increase of more than one hundred and fifty-nine million dollars.

More significant still, exports for the same time amounted to two billion, four hundred and sixty-three million, seven hundred and eighty-one thousand, nine hundred and ten dollars, an increase of over two hundred and sixty-one million dollars.

The total foreign commerce for 1913 was four billion, two hundred and seventy-eight million, three hundred and eighty-three thousand and seventy dollars, something like half a billion dollars more than in the preceding twelvemonth.

In short, the people of the United States are buying more and are selling more than in any other period of their history; and they are selling to foreign countries far more than they buy. Such a record, together with divers internal evidences of natural prosperity, simply laugh the pessimists out of court. Local and momentary stringencies there doubtless are, but as for the United States as a whole and the rank and file of its people, business prospects were never more heartening.

A Prudent Policy Toward Mexico.

Soberly interpreted, the news dispatches of the past few days in no wise indicate that our Government should swerve from its well-considered policy of caution and self-restraint toward Mexico. That conditions in that unfortunate country are very grave is undeniable; but so they have been for many seasons past. Foreign investors naturally long for a return of orderly government but hasty or violent action on the part of the United States would banish rather than bring nearer their hopes. Europe is naturally concerned over the continuous warfare, but there is no reason to believe that an Old World nation has threatened actually to intervene unless the United States does so; nor is it likely, as one observer remarks, that any of them "have gone beyond a courteous diplomatic sounding" of what our future attitude toward the Mexican situation will be.

Thus far the United States has shown practical wisdom in declining to recognize the Huerta government. That regime has no legal basis. It was established in a night by means of treason and murder. It has little or no popular support and only a scant military support. Far from crushing the rebellion, Huerta has seen it spread from State to State; and today he is no stronger but on the contrary weaker than when he stole into the Presidency through the betrayal of Madero.

With the exception of a narrow zone about the capital, the Huerta administration commands no obedience or respect. The masses of the Mexican people are either indifferent or openly rebellious toward this makeshift government. Indeed, there is today no responsible power in Mexico which the United States could recognize, if it would. President Wilson shows a purpose to move deliberately and, before taking any decisive action, to have all the facts before him; and it is to that end that he has summoned our Mexican ambassador to Washington.

The New York World states the case cogently when it says:

> "Bad as conditions are, rashness on our part might easily make them infinitely worse for ourselves and Europe also. Mexico is working out its own problems in blood, in suffering, in humiliation. It will have a sort of election in October, the result of which may justify a change of policy on our part. In the mean time there is no call for intervention and there is nothing in the Monroe Doctrine that oblige us to make war in response to the pressure of anybody."

To start things coming your way, go after them.

An Air Map of the World,

The announcement by Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary that famous geographers from many countries will soon meet to prepare an aeronautical map of the entire world is unusually interesting. It indicates, for one thing, distinct progress in the science of aviation and when such a map is complete the field for aerial exploits will be far wider than now and far clearer.

This great task was projected at the international geographic conference recently held at Rome. It will have the support of such institutions as the National Geographic Society of America, a fact which assures it the utmost possible success. An air map of the world, indicating atmospheric currents and offering an abundance of other information which is now but dimly or incoherently known will be of invaluable service. The bringing to light and compilation of meteorological data cannot fail to advance the interests of aviation. The making of such a map is a stupendous undertaking but the character of support it has enlisted gives bright promise of its full accomplishment.

It is a tribute to baseball that the bleachers are filled to capacity even with the temperature at 97.

And nearly every woman who has been a wife for at least three years is willing to bet that the devil is a married man.

Because of the foolish people who crowd the world one dares not say much on the subject for fear of being considered personal.

The army correspondents are not having such hard times. Old stories with new dates will aptly apply either in the Balkans or Mexico.

CONFERENCE FOR THE COMMON GOOD

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

More than mere local interest attaches to the South Carolina State Conference for the Common Good, to be held in Columbia on August 6 and 7, for this is an experiment already being watched by the progressive citizens of neighboring states, and one that is sufficiently charged with ambition to spread to all parts of the union. It is no novel thing for teachers to meet in convention and discuss the needs of their state with respect to school room education, no novel thing for preachers to meet in denominational and even in interdenominational conferences. Bankers have their conventions, farmers their meetings, physicians their societies. But it is new to have all of these professional and business men meeting together in one conference dedicated to the common good. This is the South Carolina experiment.

The Conference for Education in the South, embracing all the southern states, several years ago confessed the discovery that education was too broad a word to be pent up in a school house, and so widened its range of activities as to inquire into all the elements affecting the southern people. As most southern people live in the country, the rural aspect of the problem naturally assumed large proportions. At the last annual conference, held in Richmond in April, especial emphasis was laid on the matter of marketing crops as well as of growing them, particular attention was devoted to the vexing problem of rural credits and, better than anything else, business men and educators and farmers were brought together. But an annual conference embracing a dozen states never can hope to reach the farmer in the furrow or the store keeper behind the counter.

A half dozen socially sensitive South Carolinians, soon after the Richmond meeting had demonstrated the fine hope of co-operation, wrote a circular letter to a hundred others of like minds and purposes and called a preliminary meeting in Columbia for June 10. This gathering issued the general call for the state conference for the common good.

It is the purpose at the meeting in August not only to discuss the problems confronting the people of the state but to begin active work in attacking them. Permanent executive offices are to be established, and the state conference will be held annually hereafter. Then as soon as possible county conferences will be held, and while the state executive headquarters will assist these local meetings the intention is not to instruct or to preach, but to give the people of each community a forum where they may discuss their own affairs in their own way and take such advantage of that wisdom that President Wilson is so fond of saying is to be found in common counsel. This, indeed, is the whole purpose of the movement—common counsel for the common good.

The tentative program for the first statewide conference—since the forum is to be free there can be no fixed program—indicates the scope and purpose of the movement. The first thing is to be a statement concerning the co-operation problem in the south by Clarence E. Poe, editor of the Progressive Farmer, of Raleigh, N. C. This will be followed by statements showing the loss to farmers on account of poor marketing. Representatives of the housewives' league and one or two progressive grocers and merchants next will discuss plans for creating a home market for home products—plans to end the waste of throwing away sweet corn in South Carolina in the summer and buying in a can shipped from Iowa in the winter. Actual experiences in co-operative marketing, and a general discussion of the various methods of marketing the cotton and corn crops will close the first session.

As the first session is devoted to marketing, the second is dedicated to the home, the social following naturally upon the economic problem. The discussion will follow four heads: Home ownership and good farming, howe ownership and health, home ownership and the school, home ownership and the church. This leads naturally to a consideration of actual plans for aiding the tenant farmer to buy land, and for assisting the mill worker to buy a home.

Another session will take up the general topic of education with special reference to improving school conditions in the state by providing more funds, by considering a compulsory attendance law, and planning to use the schools as an instrument for abolition of child labor and improvement of sanitary conditions.

Other special subjects will be the public health women's club work and further conference between business men and farmers on practical problems demanding immediate solution.

At the end these related economic, social, educational, agricultural and business discussions will be brought to a focus in a more general consideration of the problems of citizenship. The building of a community spirit is the whole purpose of the movement and the best thoughts of the workers will be addressed to this subject.

• • •

P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, has given his hearty approval to the purposes of the conference and will address it at the closing session on "Education and Citizenship." Dr. A. P. Bourland, secretary of the Conference for Education in the South, where the new movement had its inception, will be present at all the meetings. W. K. Tate, state supervisor of elementary rural schools and professor of pedagogy in the University of North Carolina, is the provisional president of the conference as he is also the guiding spirit in its organization. Captain W. E. Gonzales, of the Columbia State, is another of the leading men interested in the conference.

The plan and purpose of the movement for the common good is to build up and to utilize the natural resources of the state, its boys and girls as well as its acres and waterfalls. To do this it is believed that this state conference with the county conferences following will be of great help in getting before the people certain economic questions in a manner not confused with partisan or factional politics, and not obscured by the personalities of political leaders.

It is the hope that these meetings will lead the farmer and the business man to see that their interests lie in a common plane and that each helps himself by helping the other. In South Carolina, as in many other states, especially in the south, farseeing men are deeply distressed by the wasteful methods of using the soil. Here in South Carolina the problem is made more difficult by the tenant farmer. To help this class of farmers to become land owners is one of the chief purposes of the conference.

Forty-five per cent of the white farmers of South Carolina are tenant farmers. They shift from place to place. They have no abiding interest which will lead them to build up the soil, to improve the homes, to establish schools or support churches. Their presence in the community tends to stratify the people into classes.

Sonnets on an Electric Fan

I.

Hail! genie of the air's mysterious deeps
That callest to my aid the cooling breezes.
As when swart travelers whom no rest house eases
On deserts which the tropic sunshine steeps
Behold the wind clouds rise in darkening heaps,
Which soon a giant hand in frenzy seizes
And rends while shedding coolness, so it pleases
Me to perceive thy presence, for it keeps
Promise of grateful zephyrs to caress
And soothe my senses with a comfort sweet.
I tap the tempest when thy switch I press;
It rushes forth my fainting soul to greet.
And ease it of the languor and the stress
That come with summer's dread, remorseless heat.

II.

I turn the switch and wait to feel the cool
Breeze on my burning brow. Oh, it will bring
A blessed peace, as if an angel's wing
Had passed me near. Still like a stagnant pool
The air remains. I sit upon my stool
And work the switch. What ails the dratted thing?
Alas! it will not go. I'm stung, by jing!
There's nothing doing. I feel like a fool.
The magic doodad that the salesman said
Would loose the cyclone, as I recollect,
Is merely junk. I'd like to punch his head!
Well, anyway, what could a guy expect?
Two ninety-eight is what the fellow bled
Me for this cheap air-paddle. Now it's wrecked.

A Baich of Smiles

A certain youth was about going out to his first formal dinner party. His mother said: "Now, don't forget your manners, James; be sure to say something complimentary when the food is passed." He endeavored to do so. When butter was served he remarked pleasantly, "This is pretty good butter, what there is of it."

The remark was not well received; he saw that he had made a mistake and he endeavored to correct it by saying: "And there's plenty of it, such as it is."

It was Springer's afternoon off, and he thought he would take the children for a little outing.

"All right, if it's all the same to the children."—Lippincott's.

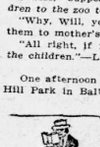
One afternoon not long ago in the vicinity of Druid Hill Park in Baltimore there might have been seen a young man industriously pushing up and down a baby carriage, intently reading a book the while.



"Henry! Henry!" called a young woman from the second story of a house opposite.

Henry heard not, but continued to push the baby carriage and to read his book.

In about an hour the cries for "Henry" were repeated.

Well, what do you want?" he demanded, rather impatiently.

"Nothing, dear," was the irritating response "except to inform you that you've been wheeling Harriet's doll all the afternoon. I think it's time for the baby to have a turn now."—Harper's Magazine.

The Prayer of the Physician

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

O God, I pray that I may have absolute intellectual honesty. Let others fumble, shuffle and evade, but let me be a physician clean to the clean truth, assume no knowledge I have not and claim no skill I do not possess.

Cleanse me from all credulities, all fatuous enthusiasms, all stubbornness, vanities, egotism, prejudices and whatever else may clog the sound processes of my mind. These be dirt; make my personality as aseptic as my instruments.

Give me heart, but let my feeling be such as shall come over me as an investment of power to make my thoughts clear and cold as stars, and my hand skilful as steel.

Deliver me from professionalism, so that I may be always human, and thus minister to sickly minds as well as to ailing bodies.

Give me a constant realization of my responsibility. People believe in me. Into my hands they lay their lives. Let me, of all men, be sober and walk in the fear of eternal justice. Let no culpable ignorance of mine, no neglect nor love of ease, spoil the worth of my high calling.

Make my discretion strong as religion, that the necessary secrets of souls confided in me may be as if told to the priest.

Give me the joy of healing. I know how far short I am of being a good man; but make me a good doctor.

Give me that love and eagerness and pride in my work without which the practice of my profession will be fatal to me and to them under my care.

Give me a due and decent self-esteem, that I may regard no man's occupation higher than mine, envying not the king upon his throne so long as I am prime minister to the suffering.

Deliver me from playing at precedence, from the hankering for praise and prominence from sensitiveness, and all like forms of toxic selfishness.

Give me money; not so little that I cannot have the leisure I need to put quality into my service; not so much that I shall grow fat in head and leaden in heart, and sell my sense of ministry for the flesh-pots of indulgence.

Give me courage, but hold me back from over-confidence.

Let me so discharge the duties of my office that I shall not be ashamed to look any man or woman in the face, and that when at death I lay down my task I shall go to what judgment awaits me, strong in the consciousness that I have done something toward the sanity, health and happiness of all people, something toward alleviating the incurable tragedy of life.

Amen.

"The Author of 'Robinson Crusoe'"

One afternoon before I had ever read anything of De Foe's but "Robinson Crusoe," I chanced to see quoted in a book some one had left lying open on a library table these words of his:

"He that hath truth on his side is a fool as well as a coward if he is afraid to own it because of the multitude of other men's opinions. 'Tis hard for a man to say all the world is mistaken but himself. But if it be so who can help it?"

What makes style? It was as though the voice of Daniel De Foe spoke from the book, as actually as the voice of my friend who now came in ready for walking. And when that chance word led me to read De Foe and his biography, these were the story of a man who would have thought himself a fool not to own the truth he knew.

He could own it by following the cause of the Duke of Monmouth through Sedgemoor and the Bloody Assize; and in the "Essay on Projects" and in the debates of parliament in the Legion Letter; he could own it by being pilloried for justice to dissenters and churchmen alike; and by masquerading as a Jacobite to mitigate the excesses of the Tory press; and by telling in many forms of fiction that true story which was after all the history of his life and will be the history of ours—the story of the soul of man in the midst of an unknown wilderness.

When Friday cuts his father's bonds, and Moll Flanders sleeps on the deck-planks of the transport, you breathe with them the wide air of the stories of peoples. You traverse the globe. You are a part of the march of events; of the state of civilization and of the responsible world of men.

Besides this fine pleasure, you feel with Crusoe and Colonel Jack and with Roxana, too, a quick pride in the human faculty of moving toward the light. This peculiar tone of bright and merciful curiosity and clear-thinking ingenuity throughout De Foe's work is indescribably beautiful and imparts a crystal splendor to all his life's labors.—Edith Wyatt, in the July issue of the North American Review.

Quips and Quiddities

A sad story is told by a Pennsylvania man of a lad in his town who, like many another boy, has been obliged to wear the cast-off clothing of his father.

One afternoon this lad was discovered in tears.

"What's the trouble, my boy?" asked the man who tells the story.

"Why" explained the youngster between sobs, "pop has gone and shaved his face clean, and now I s'pose I'll have to wear all them whiskers.—Harper's Magazine.

The little maid stood in the parlor doorway, one hand on the handle. For a moment she gazed at her father, who was preparing to take his afternoon nap.

"Papa," she said, "do you know what I am going to give you for your birthday when it comes?"

"No, dear," answered the fond father, "but please tell me."

"A nice, new china shaving mug, with gold flowers on it all around," said the little maid.

"But my dear," explained her parent, "papa has a nice one like that already."

"No, he hasn't," his little daughter answered, thoughtfully, "'cos—'cos I've just dropped it!"

On a Philadelphia paper worked Julius Kaufman, a Dane, who wrote clever, forceful, pungent editorials. Kaufman's English was impeccable, but his writing was impossible. It seemed to have been done with a bent pin and an asphalt mixture. George Kennedy was the only man on the copy desk who could read it. One day Kennedy came to Editor Thompson, shaking his head. "It's all off," he said. "I've lost my grip. I read this thing of Kaufman's with perfect ease until I got half-way through—and then I stuck. I don't know why. The second half of his stuff looks just like the first half. But I can't read it." Thompson took that manuscript over to a corner. By and by Thompson came back with lines of strain around his mouth. "Put it up to Kaufman," said he. "Either he's gone floozy or we have." So when Kaufman came in they gave him his manuscript and told him to go away somewhere and find out what it meant. By and by he came back, beaming. "It was easy," said he. "The second part I haf yoost wrote in Danish."

"Rastus had lost his girl. She had "gone with a handsomer man." Me ting her on the street one day, he accosted her thus:

"Look here, 'Li a, does that other fellow give you any bettah presents than I used to give you?"

"Don't know as he does," replied Eliza calmly.

"Does he show you any bettah times than I used to show you?"

"Don't know as he does."

"Does he buy you any better dinners than I used to buy?"

"Dinners, man?" cried Liza. "Why, that man found me on me I don't know I had!"—Everybody's Magazine.

Moses Called to Deliver Israel. Ex. iii:1-iv:20.

Golden Text—Blessed are, the pure in heart: for they shall see God. Matt. v:8.

(1.) Verse 1—What circumstances had brought Moses, the Egyptian scholar, to be a keeper of sheep?

(2.) Was it according to God's first plan or not, and why, that Moses should be a keeper of sheep.

(3.) How did Moses' forty years in the wilderness fit him for his life's work?

(4.) What reason is there to believe that God sees to it that we get the training we need for the work which he sets us to do?

(5.) Verse 2—Who was this "angel of the Lord?"

(6.) Was this burning bush objective to Moses, or only subjective?

(7.) Would it be any less real to Moses as a message from God or to us, as profitable history, if this entire scene were subjective? why?

(8.) Verse 3—Ought we or not to take time to investigate all new or strange spiritual phenomena? Why?

(9.) Verse 4—Would you say or not, and why, that God always pays special attention and reveals himself more fully to those who give earnest heed to his first approaches?

(10.) Verse 5—Why was that spot holy ground, and what was the significance of Moses taking off his shoes?

(11.) What is the inference from the fact that God is the God or Abraham, Isaac and Jacob?

(12.) Was there merit or demerit in the fact, and why, that Moses was afraid to look upon God?

(13.) Verses 7-9—Through what one act were all the sufferings of Israel in Egypt a result?

(14.) What reason is there to believe that God greatly sympathizes with the sorrows of the people, even when they are a result of their sins and that He always has a plan to deliver them?

(15.) Verse 10—How long do you consider God had been making plans for Moses to deliver Israel from Egypt?

(16.) Verse 11—Is it true or not, and why, that the more fit a person is for a great work the less he thinks himself fitted?

(17.) Verses 12-15—Did God expect Moses to deliver his people or simply want him to be the instrument?

(18.) Verses 16-22—What evidence is there in this story, that organization for any important enterprise is God's plan?

(19.) What promises does God make, or what proofs does he give to Moses, that his mission shall be a success?

(20.) Chapter iv:1-9—Is Moses' reluctance to undertake the work to be praised or blamed and why?

(21.) What further evidence did God give to Moses that his mission would be a success?

(22.) What is the nature and the kind of evidence which a good man has today that he will succeed in the work to which God has appointed him?

(23.) Verses 10-20—What are the excuses which Moses made to God in order to shun his work?

(24.) Why is it unreasonable and wicked to think that God ever asks a man to do a work without giving him the ability and the opportunity to do it?

(25.) What honor did Moses lose, and what does every man lose who refuses to do the work which God assigns him?

BURNING THE LAST $6,000 MORTGAGE BOND AT ST. PAUL'S METHODIST CHURCH, SUNDAY.

Miss Esther Emily Cook, aged eighty-two, who taught a class in the open air Sunday school in 1869 which preceded the organization of St. Paul's Methodist congregation, is shown by the photograph holding the tray on which was burning the last vestige of the church debt. She had applied the match to the four corners of the last mortgage bond, the match having been furnisher and struck by C. W. Mangum, sheriff of Fulton county who stands second at her left. Sheriff Mangum is one of the charter members of the congregation, which was formed in 1870.

POTPOURRI By Rev. Loy Warwick

A rolling stone gathers no moss, but who wishes to be a mossback?

When a man boasts of always saying just what he thinks it is a sign he does not think much.

To declare that every man has his price is to advertise myself for sale.

One of the biggest things in the world is the little sin. Shun it as you would the plague or poison. The little leak lost the dyke. The little rift in the lute slowly widening silenced all and made the music mute.

Not to ask foolish questions is an evidence of good sense. To answer them kindly is a sign of a good heart.

It is not easy to see why some self-made men are so proud of their handiwork.

To be a Christian means to be religious all the time, everywhere and in all things.

If men are not religious in all things they are not truly so in anything.

The true view of life does not make us either dependent or independent. We are inter-dependent. "Useless each without the other."

"Now is the law of the jungle,
as old and as true as the sky;
And the wolf that shall keep it may prosper, but the wolf that shall break it must die.
As the creeper that circles the tree-trunk, so the law runneth forward and back;
For the strength of the pack is the wolf, and the strength of the wolf is the pack."

Men with wrong opinions may have very sublime feelings, but that does not justify their false doctrine.

It does make a difference what people believe, even though they are honest in their belief. The truth makes men free. If I eat poison thinking it wholesome food my honesty will not save me from illness or death.

"The ancients have stolen" a great many of our best thoughts, but not all wisdom died with them. Nor yet was it all born with the moderns.

It is foolish to accept or reject a thing either because it is old or new. Is it true? Does it work? Does it bear good fruit? These are questions to ask. It matters little whether it is found in "the fathers" or endorsed by the men of the hour.

Remembering the Sabbath day to keep it holy does not absolve one from the obligation to work six days out of seven. Nor does the fact that a man earns his bread in the sweat of his face make it right for him to rob God in the matter of the Sabbath. We need holy days more than we do holidays, unless meats and the flesh are to be put above the soul and its needs.

THIS IS NO "FISH STORY."

You can take the story of Jonah as a parable and still qualify as an orthodox believer. But do not betray your ignorance by poking fun at "Jonah's whale." The skeleton of a great fish passed through Brunswick waters not a great while ago. Observe his proportions: Length, forty-five feet; circumference, twenty-three feet and nine inches. It weighed thirty thousand pounds. It had a tongue. Its mouth was thirty inches wide and forty inches deep. This marvel of the deep is not classified in natural history. Go to the Smithsonian institute and judge for yourself. There was plenty of room for a prayer meeting and a mourners' bench on board this great fish.

WHO IS MY NEIGHBOR?

Jonah had no trouble loving his neighbors so long as God let him choose where to live and folks to love. He did not care to make new acquaintances, thank you. His world was quite big enough for his purposes without taking on Nineveh. Jonah's neighbors were the people who lived around him and voted as he did and went to the same church. The others were aliens and outcasts. It is easy to love your neighbor as yourself if your neighbor is a beautiful woman, or a handsome man, or a sweet child, or a kind friend. But Christian love is anxious to go to Nineveh.

Christian love loves the unloved and the unlovely. It knows no north, no south, no east, no west, but one vast land sublime where God is father and all men are brothers.

WHEN THE DEVIL DANCES.

If the devil dances he prefers the tango, turkey-trot, grizzly bear and other extreme forms that you need to apologize for naming in decent company.

Man is fire and woman is tow,
And the devil he comes and begins to blow.

And from his blowing has come all these indecent dances.

The men of Lot's city believed in a wide-open town. They voted for it. The rain of fire and brimstone was God's answer to the demand for a liberal policy in dealing with vice.

POOR TERMINALS.

So many people do not know when to stop. What earthly use is there in taking seventy minutes when your audience got through in half that time? Better speak to folks for twenty-five minutes than to pews for a full hour. Know when to stop and what to not say. Some preachers and teachers and parents have made wrong things popular with a certain class. They did it by intemperate and indiscriminate abuse. Don't scold. Don't nag. Don't talk all day. Some folks can abuse the devil in such a tiresome way that yon feel like taking his part.

Best Boxing Card Ever Staged in Atlanta Witnessed Friday

Surprises at Boxing Match: White Strong

Abel Is Knocked Out, Young Whipped and Nelson Floored, All of Which Went to Make Card Best Ever

Surprises came thick and fast in Friday's boxing card at the auditorium, which, by the way, was far and away the best ever staged in Atlanta. First, it was the spilling of Terry Nelson, the Greek, by Eddie Hanlon; secondly, the whipping of Kid Young by Charley Lee, and, thirdly, the knockout handed Jake Abel by Charley White.

Abel, Young and Nelson have been boxing around Atlanta for a long time and have always put up a good exhibition, and are known to be good glove artists, and their defeat was a bit out of the ordinary. Probably it was not the defeat of Nelson by Hanlon which caused the surprise, but the fact that Nelson was once lifted off his feet and sent to the mat. This is something that has never before happened to the Greek, and he has fought many good boys.

Both Young and Abel have scrapped many a bout before an Atlanta audience, but to see Abel floored and Young completely outclassed is something not even dreamed of. The defeat of Young was caused principally through his lack of condition, while Abel lost just because he was up against the best boxer he has ever faced. nI winning, Charlie Lee and Charley White appeared to be in grand form.

The crowd which turned out to witness the bouts was very small, yet every fan who remained away missed the best bunch of matches that have been shown an Atlanta audience. Any one of the four matches was worth the price of admission, and, all together, they were worth far more. The promoters lost money by staging the entire card, but preferred to do that rather than cut any of the announced card, and by doing so made themselves solid with the public.

OPENING BOUT GOOD

Young Abe Attell and Tim Callahan gotaway in the opening match of four rounds and even this eye opener was a corker. Both boys fought all the way but Callahan had an admitted edge and won the match.

Next in line came the contest in which Eddie Hanlon and Terry Nelson were the principals. Both Nelson and Hanlon have appeared in the ring in Atlanta on numerous occasions and there were none in the house who figured that Hanlon had the ghost of a show to knock out the Greek or even floor him and when in the seventh round Hanlon sent Nelson to the floor for the count of nine it was the most surprised house imaginable.

Nelson is out of the toughest boxers that ever fought here and when he is floored it is a sure thing that the other han has a grand wallop.

The Charlie Lee-Lid Young bout was one of these grudge affairs. Lee had trained for the match and Young had not and it was only in the first couple of rounds to see that Lee had all the better of the argument. Until the seventh round when Young twice fouled Lee, the match was one of the fiercest ever staged here.

From the second to the seventh round Lee was punishing Young unmercifully and owing to Young's poor condition he was unable to stand up under it and repeatedly called for the sponge. Lee was using a left to the stomach with great effect, though he often crossed a few blows to the newsboy's face. Even after being fouled Lee offered to continue the match though he armitted he would be unable to do his best work.

WHITE LOOKS GOOD.

The main match between Abel and White was short and sweet. It took White just two rounds to dispose of the Chattanooga lad, but in doing so he showed some of the prettiest hitting ever witnessed in a local ring. Abel was just not a match for the well-built Chicagoan, who is fast, has a punch and knows the game.

In the very first round White demonstrated his speed and blocking ability, but did not get in any especially strong punches. In the second round White saw an opening and shooting through a left uppercut he sent Abel sprawling on his back. But Jake was game and came back for more, though a bit dizzy. And he got more. He had been on his feet but half a minute when White sent in a hard left and right and it was all off.

By his clever work on Friday night White is sure to be brought here for another match. It is probable that Jimmy Duffy or Frank Whitney will be secured for him and either would be a corking match. The earlier such a match is secured the better suited the fans will be.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Mobile and Atlanta are no further apart than they were on Thursday, as Atlanta won and Mobile lost, cancelling the result of Thursday's games. Montomery remained stationary on the top. They split two with the Vols.

The Giants split another double bill with St. Louis, while the Phillies were losing.

The Athletics won, as usual. The Senators by winning from St. Louis while the Naps dropped one, climbed within three games of second place.

Dent in Form Held Pelicans In Good Game

Crackers Pounded Out 11 Runs – Welchonce Starred With Stick–Series to Date Stands One Game for Each

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.—Eddie Dent had the Pelicans eating great grains of defeat out of his hands on Friday, while the Cracker swatsmen, seemingly stirred deeply by their defeat at the hands of the Pelicans the day before, batted in eleven whole runs.

Dent should have had a shut-out to his credit, had not Bisland's throw to first in the ninth allowed Jud Daley to score when he could have easily been out aot home. The locals could only gather three swats off Dent's delivery, while Walker was tapped fifteen times.

Atlanta's big round was the fifth, when Agler went wild, beating out a bunt and then stealing second and third. Bisland hit a Texas leaguer, Welchonce singled, and Tommy Long hit a threesacker to right and scored on a wild pitch. Four runs were the result.

In the seventh and ninth Atlanta scored three more runs.

Welchonce was the big boy with the bat. He hit safely four times in five trials.

The changed batting order of the Crackers may have been responsible for the many hits which dotted in the Pelican park, but, to date ,no reason has been assigned for the wild dashes of the Crackers from bag to bag.

STARS OF ONE DAY

Derrill Pratt had five chances to hit and accepted only one of them.

Johnston, of Cleveland: Was up three times and did not hit.

Joe Jackson slumped in his batting average by getting only one hit in three times up. He made three errors in the outfield.

Russell Ford pitched his team to victory against Cleveland, giving up only six hits. He got one hit and scored one run in three times up.

Bobby Byrne: Was up four times and hit safely one.

Zach Wheat was up four times and got one hit. He accepted six chances in the outfield.

Jake Daubert: Could only connect once in four times up.

Elmer Smith was up four times and hit safely once.

Almeida played third for one inning, making one put out and not getting credit for an at bat.

Erskine Mayer wrs again used as a supply man, pitching 1-3 of an inning.

Yerkes: Was up three times and hit safely once.

Batting Figures

Welchonce forged to the front of the Cracker batters when he landed four safeties out of five trips to the pan in Friday's game with the Pels.

BEST OF POLO OUTFITS PLAY IN BIG TOURNEY

(By Associated Press.)

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 19.—The most formidable array of hard riders, hard hitters and fast mounts that has ever sought American pony polo championship honors assembled at the Point Judith Country club today for the opening of the series of championship events, senior, junior and open.

Teams and players from nearly all of the polo clubs and many of the country clubs of the east, including one team from the United States army, will engage in the thirtw contests scheduled for the next four weeks.

Interest undoubtedly will center in the Point Judith senior team, which this year is made up of two American internationalists, Devereaux, Milburn and J. M. Waterbury, Lord Wodehouse, of England, a substitute on the British team, and R. L. Agassiz, of Boston, an internationalist in 1905. Point Judith will play in both the senior and open championships, meeting in the first round in the latter event the fast Rockaway team, which is expected to include L. E. Stoddard, three of the American international players, and several other well-known poloists.

Play opens this afternoon with a handicap match, while the regular schedule will begin on Monday with the first matches for the Overture cup.

Twelve-Inning Tie

MONTEZUMA, Ga., July 19.—The first of a series of games between Montezuma and Beuna Vista here Thursday afternoon resulted in a tie of 5 to 5 after going twelve innings.

Batteries: Montezuma, Smith and Easterlin; Beuna Vista, Carpenter, Mosely and Howell. Hits: Montezuma, 9; Beuna Vista, 4. Errors: Montezuma, 3; Beuna Vista, 5.

The game was played to a large crowd, people coming from all nearby towns.

Clarke Joins Atlanta Club

Another addition to the Cracker pitching staff which Billy Smith believes will greatly strengthen the team is a southpaw who has been turned over to Atlanta by Clark Griffith, of the Washington Americans. George Clarke is his name, and he joined the club Friday in New Orleans.

Billy Smith announced that he will give the new comer a chance in one of the games of the double-header with the Pelicans Sunday. Gil Price will probably work in the other game. Carl Thompson is selected to twirl Saturday.

King Brady, the right-hander, has been unconditionally released by Smith to make room on the club for lClarke.

This addition gives Billy a well-balanced staff of slab artists, with Dent, Conzelman and Thompson as his right-hand flingers and Price and Clarke to leave them over from the port side. If Clarke comes up to the hope and expectations .the Crackers should make a good road record and have every pitcher in good shape for his turn.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

MOBILE, Ala., July 19.—Mobile and Birmingham will play a double-header on Monroe field this afternoon, due to Thursday's game being called, due to tenth on account of rain. The first game Campbel will pitch for Mobile and Prough for Birmingham. In the second Robertson will be on the mound for Mobile and Gregory, a new man, for the visitors. Big Handicap Race Was Thriller For Race Fans

Jock McNeil Showed Up Especially Strong in Matches Friday Evening—Next Big Events on Tuesday

Jock McNeil and Tex Richards provided plenty of fun for the fans at the big 'drome Friday night. The finishes were closer and the time better in the races Friday night than previously.

The 'drome purse race with two mile heats and two mile final was the feature of the night, though faster time was made in the sweepstakes. The finish brought the crowd to their feet cheering McNeil. The Scot was peeved at Richards copping all the blue ribbons, so he took a hand in the proceedings, poured all in his old boat that she could hold and nosed Tex out of his customary first place.

The heats in the Atlanta sweepstakes were fast and the riders spun around the boards joggling elbows for several laps. Barely a machine length separated the first three men at the finishes. Morty Graves gave Tex Richards a race every foot of the eight laps in the second heat and the speedy Texan had a hot time winning. The final heat in this event for three miles was a pretty race. Richards and McNeil were together the entire length of it, passing each other again and again. But Tex didn't like the idea of pulling off a meet without his pulling down a first, so he opened up. his old Indian gave a war whoop, and McNeil ran second.

One whole lap proved too big a lead in the handicap race for four miles and though Jock McNeil rode like a madman, he couldn't catch even the last man before the finish. Another lap, however, and the handicap would have looked like 30 cents. Richards developed motor trouble in this race and was forced to quit. Renel finished first, making fair time.

Jack Prince says he will pull off an honest to goodness Marathon Tuesday night, 26 miles and 385 yards. That certainly sounds good, and should prove a sure enough feature.

The big 'drome is as cool as any spot we know of and the large crowd Friday night thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

The results of the races follow:

THE LONG TRAMP.

Some day we'll go on a world-wide tramp:
We'll leave with the wandering winds of night;
We'll take one trail to the Long Road's end
By the crowded plains and the hills of light;
And the ghosts that come from the Sullay years,
The spectral shapes from the day of tears
We'll leave far back in the land of fears—
In the Land where Wrong rules Night.

Some day we'll leave on a star-rimmed trail;
We'll pass the sun out the western way;
Raw souls that leap from the silent breast
Where the hands lie crossed at the end of day;
Raw souls that leap to a mystic clime
Where the bells of the fading church shall chime
"Hail—Vagabonds to the end of Time—
To the end of an endless play."

Mr. Cobb couldn't live on $12,000 and Mr. Bryan can't exist on a mere 12,000 bones. These ground-covers come high.

Yet we know a lot of people who could pike along on 12,060 bones if they were willing to stick to the grape juice.

DO YOU FOLLOW US?

Pittsburg is ripping along but the gap is still a wide one. For every game the Giants tear off above an even break the rest of the year, Clark must travel that much faster than an average of 50 out of 73 contests.

This sounds complex and badly tangled, but it's better than using a half column to explain at further length.

IN THE NEXT W. S.

"Connie Mack," states an exchange, "must depend exclusively upon Binder and Plank, his veterans, in the next world series."

Regarding which a friend of Connie's informs us—"And you can go broke that he will also start Carl Brown and start him in the belief that Brown will come through. The kid is built of the right stuff to tackle any sort of series and work at top speed."

America is supposed to go into the challenge round of the Davis cup next week. England, with Wilding on the side lines, must feel like Griff in a tight game with Johnson on the bench or Cleveland with Joe Jackson suspended.

Miller Huggins and his Cardinals have been making a terrific splurge towards last place, but the Reds foiled them for quite a while. All the Cardinals required to win out was a Red victory. Having settled there another ringing blow will be struck at suffrage, or that part of it connected with the National game.

IN SUSPENSE.

Unless they announce soon who is to meet Willie Ritchie our nervous system may rebel from the strain.

We hardly believe the fistic promotors can know how taut the populace have become in awiting the reply. Another week and it may be too late to save the national pulse.

The Giants won fifteen straight from the Reds last summer when they needed them most. To enlarge their spirit this season they have now won nine straight. No wonder Cincinnati is always selected to partake in the annual flag raising at the Polo Grounds. The entrance of any other club would be lese majeste and treason combined, if not downright ungraciousness.

Should Build To Keep Cup

NEW YORK, July 19.—Fear that the British international trophy for motor boats may be kept in England another year, through default of the American challengers to get any American boat across to British waters in time for the cup races, is regaded seriously. Another chapter of accidents spoiled the trials of the speed boats, which were set for yesterday afternoon off Long Island. The Neptune II, which enthusiasts expected to show in challenging form, was unable to leave her mooring because of a broken engine. The Hazel II also had a slight mishap which prevented any fast going, leaving the America, the only other trial boat, to time up alone.

The regular trials closed last week, not only one boat, the Ankle Deep, was able to stand up over the course and she did so only once. The committee then stated unofficially that this boat probably would be one of the challenging ark but it is said her owner has not yet consented to make the trip. He has been advised that the waters in the South are generally rough in August, and as his boat is only thirty-two feet long, while the limit of the class is forty feet, he has slight chance of lifting the cup.

The races are scheduled to be held at Cowes, England, August 12. If boats are to be sent to England to try to lift the cup they must be shipped by next Saturday.

Golf Teams Begin Playing for Cup

CHICAGO, July 19.—Six golf teams started today at the Homewood Country club in the tenth annual competition for the Olympic cup. They represent respectively the Western, Trans-Mississippi, Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri and Wisconsin Golf associations.

The contest is preliminary to the team for the western championship, which will open Monday, and in a measure it will disclose the condition of the players who will take part in the event. The out-of-town players have been drifting in during the week, and many of them familiarized themselves with the Homewood course yesterday.

Street Likely To Go Higher

Dame Rumor is again telling tales out of school. This time it is to the effect that Old Fox Griffith is angling for Gabby Street, who was released by the Senators last spring to Chattanooga. The Washington boss has caught wind of the heady performances that Gabby is handing out for Southern fans and is anxious to have the receiver to again don a Washington uniform this year, say reports.

If Street goes back to his old boss this season it will necessitate the firing of either Henry, Ainsmith or Williams, all stellar receivers. Just who will draw the pink papers provided the "Noogan goes back is a question. It will be a very unusual step for a big league manager to take, although there is no getting around the fact that there are worse catchers in the big show right now than Gabby.—Memphis News-Scimitar.

LaGrange Gets Game Over Talladega Club

LAGRANGE, Ga., July 19.—In the second game of the series LaGrange again defeated Talladega, the score being 10 to 2.

The game was not very interesting, being a long and weary one. It was ladies' day, and a good crowd was in attendance.

Both pitchers were retired before the final inning, and others were sent to the box. Vandegraff, of Talladega, succeeded in landing one over the fence, bringing in a couple of runners. Time of game, 2:18. Umpire, Welch.

Score by innings: R. H. E.
Talladega . . . . . 000 101 700— 9 13 4
LaGrange . . . . . 042 008 02x—16 12 1
Batteries: Talladega, Breckenridge, Roberts and Ramage; LaGrange, S. Head and Nelson Billingsley.

FAN GETS TICKET.

The last lucky fan for the home stay was J. E. Scruggs, of 47 Culberson street. He has identified himself and received a ticket for one of the games immediately after the team returns home two weeks hence.

PETTING HURTS BEST OF STAR BOXERS; EXPERT TELLS SOME OF HIS EXPERIENCES

NEW YORK, June 19.—Jack Skelly, once a Brooklynite, but now a respected resident of Yonkers, is gaining fame as a prolific contributor to newspapers on boxing. Skelly has not lived here for many years, but still numbers his friends in the eastern district by the hundreds and they will read the latest from his pen with much interest. He treats the subject of temptations that beset the path of a fighter in the following entertaining manner.

BY JACK SKELLY.

The most honored and popular men of ancient Greece and Rome were the fighting gladiators. It has been the same story ever since the world has become civilized, even today the game, honest, true, fistic champion is showered with applause, flattery, money and a profusion of adulation from millions of fans.

It's no wonder some of the pugilistic stars fall by the wayside, for not only are they admired, petted and I might say even spoiled by too much praise and flattery by men, but also by the fair sex. I've been through the mill in my salad days and if I didn't have a strong noodle I might have fallen a victim of the he and she fans that follow the trail of every successful fighter.

No wonder some of our champs get big heads and are stuck on themselves. England especially has always paid high homage to her fistic champions. When the allied sovereigns of Europe visited London in 1814 they were highly entertained by a boxing exhibition managed by "Gentleman" Jackson, a pugilistic champion of that day who was noted for his unusually polished manners and gentlemanly conduct.

The dukes of York and Clarence, Lord Albemale, Selton, Byron and Pomfret were among the most active supporters of pugilism at that time.

It often think we've got more rank hypocrites to the square mile in this great republic than there are under most any monarchy. Hear the howl that has gone forth throughout the land because Luther McCarty accidentally died in the ring recently at Calgary, Canada. Why the automobiles kill and slaughter more human lives in New York City alone in one year than has been killed in the roped arena in the past 200 years or more.

Poor McCarty was a splendid type of American manhood, a game, clean, hand-some type modern gladiator, such a grand physique, who showed what great physical perfection we Americans have reached. I have never heard so much sorrow expressed by the broad-minded people at large as there has been for poor Luther.

SULLIVAN FOLLOWING.

No Roman gladiator ever had such a wonderful following as my old friend, John L. Sullivan. He has been feasted and flattered for more than thirty years by all classes of people, and today, after being a defeated champion and out of the ring for over twenty years, he is still an idol with the followers of the game. He's now on the road with his theatrical show, gathering in over $500 per week. Pretty good, eh, for a has been?

If the unsophisticated public could only read a popular fighter's daily mail it would not only be amused, but somewhat surprised. The champions certainly receive a bunch of queer letters from many queer people who are more or less stuck on them.

Of course the silly young girls who see the fighters' pictures and read so much stuff and nonsense about them in the papers write foolish admiring letters to the good-looking gladiators just as other girls write to handsome actors—the matinee idols. If a fighter like Packey McFarland was to meet all the fair sex who write him he would soon be in a bughouse or his grave. I must admit that the giddy girls have been the cause of the downfall of many a great fistic star, and it takes a wise boy like Packey to stand them off.

Then there's the fan who writes for the fighter's autograph and photo, and sometimes for a lock of his hair or the gloves he used in one of his important fights, generally offering a good price for the same.

Another crank fan will write a long-winded letter telling the champion how to train and fight his next battle. They are full of new system and ideas that would puzzle and make a saint weary.

Jim Corbett, in his fighting days, received hundreds of these brain-wrecking letters, but he seldom read them. Life was too short, besides they would have made him daffy.

Fighters as a class are probably as charitable as any body of men I know of. They will stake a distressed friend or help any needy object along much quicker than most people. You'll remember how well they turned out to help the Ohio flood sufferers and other such affairs. But you ought to see the letters that come to the fighter with the big bank roll, asking for all kinds of charity from all kinds of people. They think the champs are all multi-millionaires who can afford to blow a thousand a day to the four winds.

It's a well-known fact that Colonel Roosevelt, when president, often entertained some favorite boxers in the White House, while United States senators, judges, diplomats and other classy gentlemen awaited the president in the outer rooms. The gallant colonel has always been an admirer of the game fighting men and has witnessed some of the best bouts in the ring.

United States Senator Roscoe Conkling, Tom Moore, the Irish poet; Sir Walter Scott, King Edward VII, A. Conan Doyle, Jack London, Lord Lonsdale, the Duke of Westminster, Thackeray and numerous others were patrons of boxing exhibitions.

SAME STORY BOBBING UP

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 19.—Tired of being a magnate, Richard Tillis declares that he will place the Montgomery Southern league franchise on the market after the present season closes.

Mr. Tillis has given several local business men an option on the franchise at $15,000 until September 1 and if they do not take it he states that he will offer the berth for sale. He admits that Shreveport people conferred with him in New Orleans regarding the franchise.

Mr. Tillis, who owns the franchise, claims that he is losing money every year on baseball in this city and he will refuse to be the "goat" after 1913. Montgomery, however, has drawn very well this year, as compared with 1912.

Rochelle Again Wins

ROCHELLE, Ga., July 19.—In an interesting game of ball Rochelle defeated Scotland again, making a clean sweep of the series. Carroll pitched for Rochelle. This makes two games Carroll has defeated Scotland. Carroll pitched a pretty game. Tippens scored the winning run for Rochelle in the ninth.

OUT FOR FAIR PLAY IN THE HORSE EVENTS

Earl of Lonsdale Has Taken Charge of Horse Shows and Races Set for the Bigger Courses This Season

LONDON, July 19.—With the racing season at its height and the international horse show once more delighting the hearts of every lover of horseflesh, the man who becomes particularly prominent is the Earl of Lonsdale, the most truly typical British sportsman of his time. As president of the horse show he really "runs the show," spending all his time at Olympia, attending personally to all manner of details, both in his room and in the arena. This year he has been absent from Olympia only during the hours that Ascot has claimed his presence, and to Ascot he has gone in his yellow carriages (which have been nicknamed the "mustardpots"), drawn by splendid high-stepping horses and manned by servants in yellow liveries and white beaver hats—a picturesque reminder of old-time England.

Lord Lonsdale clings to the good old hearty traditions of our sporting aristocracy, and there is no greater stickler for fair play and the "rigour of the game," and no more lavish patron. Describing his appearance one who knows him well says that he looks as though he had stepped out of some colored sporting print, like an early Victorian squire, with old-fashioned whiskers and a decidely "horsey" manner. He is an immensely popular man in sporting and, indeed, in all circles, and he numbers many friends, from monarchs to stable boys and from costers to dukes. He is also one of the most unconventional and independent-minded of men, with the knack of getting his own way and the habit of saying what he thinks.

The head of the Lowther family, he is now in his fifty-seventh year and as hearty and vigorous as ever. As a little boy of nine he gave the first indication of his prowess in the hunting field by being at the death after such a stiff run that only three others had been equal to. There were three noted sportsmen, and they each presented "Hughie" with a fiver in honor of the occasion. Later in life when Lord Lonsdale became master of the Quorn, and later still of the Cottesmore, he established a reputation throughout the country as one of the most capable masters and one of the most daring of riders.

But hunting has not been the only sport that has appealed to him. He has taken a more or less active part in practically every branch of sport. Boxing particularly owes a great deal to him, and as the leading spirit of the National Sporting club he has done much to make the club the world's leading authority on boxing matters. He instituted the Lonsdale belts for a series of championships of England at the five standard weights, and he takes a great personal interest in boxers, more than one of whom he has befriended. But Lord Lonsdale can use his fists himself, and more than once has settled a dispute with some unruly person in this way.

All his life sport and agriculture and country life generally have given him his chief pleasure. Politics he has taken no part in, unless we include under this head the work he has done in improving Anglo-German relations—through his very intimate friendship with the kaiser, whom he has entertained more than once at his seat, Lawther castle, in Westmoreland. Lord Lonsdale, indeed, is said to be the kaiser's closest friend in England. The two men meet and shoot and hunt together just as any other two sportsmen, and every year the earl receives an invitation from the kaiser to visit Germany for the army maneuvers and boar hunting.

One of the twelve largest landowners in the country, Lord Lonsdale is a man of great wealth, and he has always spent money with a lavish hand, more freely, he once confessed, than he should have done. He draws large royalties from the Whitehaven collieries, of which he is the landlord, and altogether owns between 176,000 and 180,000 acres. When he entertains he does on a princely scale. Each of the Kaiser's visits to Lowther castle has cost him an enormous sum. The Kaiser's numerous suite had to be lodged magnificently; the Kaiser himself to be treated withall ceremony he adores; the most splendid sport had to be provided for his entertainment; and so it was not surprising when the bill came in some $50,000 pounds. Another example of the way in which Lord Lonsdale has spent money is the five-mile private drive in the grounds of Lowther Castle, on which he spent 20,000 pounds. Neither he nor Lady Lonsdale, in her hunting days a fearless rider, care much for the kind of entertaining which goes on in London during the season; but they make the hospitality they dispense at Lowther Castle a rare combination of simplicity and oldworld ceremony.

Lowther Castle is full of the sporting trophies which Lord Lonsdale has brought home from various parts of the world. In North America he had many exciting adventures and alarmed his friends by getting lost in the Rock Mountains for nearly a fortnight. There are also souvenirs of a journey he once took into the Artic regions. As a four-in-hand driver he has an unrivalled reputation and one of his most celebrated feats was his race against time twenty-two years ago. He had made a wager with the Earl of Shrewsbury to drive five miles four-in-hand, five miles double harness, five miles single harness and five miles postillion. The Earl of Shrewsbury forfeited, as the course was thick with snow. But Lord Lonsdale had the course cleared, and in spite of inclement weather completed the twenty miles between Reigate and Crawley in the marvellously short time of 56 min. 55 sec., including changes. Lord Lonsdale is a thorough sportsman in that he can do things which are frequently left to others.

British sport indeed has no better friend than the Earl of Lonsdale.

RENEWED BULL SUPPORT CAUSED RISE IN COTTON

Market in New York Closed 1 to 8 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Apprehension that today's detailed weather reports would show record-breaking temperatures in the eastern belt caused continued covering and scattered buying in cotton this morning. Realizing was active for over the second, however, and after opening steady at a decline of 5 points on July but generally 1 to 3 points net higher, fluctuations were more or less irregular, with active months sagging off to about yesterday's closing.

Liverpool futures were lower than due, owing to week-end realizing, but there was good better spot demand and cables were considered about a standoff.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW ORLEANS, July 19.—Cotton futures opened steady, two points down to four points up, compared with the last prices of yesterday. Cables were much lower than due but were offset by the continued dry weather over the cotton region and the promise of fair weather tomorrow. Reports from Texas were that cotton was opening fast in the early conditions and that premature opening of bolls was feared and would be inevitable with a few days more of drouth and high temperatures. Early trading was marked in the new crops, although one sale of July was made at an advance of four points over yesterday's closing quotations. The new crop sold one point up in general and the fall and then fell off to a net decline of one to three points. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were unchanged to one point up, net.

The detailed weather reports stimulated a wave of buying around the middle of the morning and prices of the new crop months sold to new high levels for the week. The Augusta and Okalahoma districts reported average temperatures yesterday of 105 degrees and other districts reported 100 or over, while the average maximum temperature for the entire belt was 99 degrees. The new crop went to a level of 5 to 6 points over yesterday's final quotations. Profit-taking by longs checked the upward movement.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW

NEW YORK, July 19.—The cotton market has shown considerable irregularity and a strengthening old crop situation and apprehension of new crop damage, as the result of continued dry, hot weather and a very active trade interest for the week. Trading has not been active enough to suggest any material broadening of interest during partly, perhaps to legislative uncertainties, but the undertone has been steady, and October contracts made new high records for the movement.

Crop reports have been conflicting, and many advices coming in from both western and eastern sections continue to report favorable prospects, but claims of deterioration, as a result of insufficient moisture in the southwest, seemed a little more numerous toward the end of the week and a private report, published on Thursday, placed the deterioration at 5 per cent in the crop's condition since the compilation of June 25 figures. The fact, too, that temperatures in eastern belt ranging as high as 107 degrees as reported of Georgia stations, have led to apprehensions of damage to cotton, especially on rather lightly fertilized soil and while the situation does not appear sufficiently serious to inspire any general buying movement, sellers have certainly shown a more reserved attitude. The short interest, in fact, is supposed to have been considerably reduced, and a change in weather conditions or increased offerings from the south. Further shipments from New York have reduced the certified stock to less than 25,000 bales and while interim sell houses have been sellers of July and August, the small supply available here is considered partly responsible for the relative firmness of October. Some authorities are predicting a large August movement of new crop cotton from Texas this season, although the actual sales so received have been small, but at present there is little or no pressure of actual cotton reported and but little has been sold in fact of southern hedge selling. Owing partly to the high basis demanded for new crop shipments, domestic mills have so far shown little interest, but were reported moderate buyers this week and, according to the consensus here, will stock to the extent 300,000 bales during June.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP.

Times-Democrat says:

One lone report of hot winds, not in Texas, but Oklahoma, was sufficient to set the talent by the ears. The Government reporter, Meir Hip Van Winkle sleep of the past several weeks; never does use the language of excitement, but covered at once. Buying orders poured into the New Orleans, and other local ring fairly hummed with activity. Recently fluctuations in the market have ranged between 11.40 and 11.60 for October. Ring traders had noticed this tendency for the past week to stop long at 11.60 and it was becoming a matter of habit with them to buy around 11.40 for October and to sell around 11.60.

The rule failed to work in yesterday's market, because it was the advantage of the bull in early in the day on the strength of a bearish crop report by a prominent authority, prices went off. Then, when the bull saw that a rebound did not stop at 11.60 for October, but shot above it, and that the local ring fairly hummed with activity. Then, when the bull saw that a rebound did not stop at 11.60 for October, but shot above it, and that the local ring fairly hummed with activity, and "booking" not a few of the ring crowd.

Reliable Texas advices promise abundant early cotton in four weeks, therefore bull interests are concentrating their attack on the August market in the next two weeks before the supply of new cotton is shown in actual commercial form. Texas advices say dry spell is most favorable. The idea of damaging drought is manufactured in New York.—Kofler.

Map shows partly cloudy weather, lower central belt, Texas, Oklahoma and Florida. High temperatures in several districts in central and eastern belt. Normal temperatures in Texas and Oklahoma. Indications are for cooler weather in the northwestern quarter, with local showers in Missouri and Kansas and west Texas. Cooler also in central belt, but continued hot weather in the Atlantic states.

Forecast—Louisiana: Tonight and Sunday generally fair; light northerly winds on the coast.

Arkansas: Tonight and Sunday unsettled; local showers in southwest portion. Sunday cooler tonight in north portion.

Oklahoma: Tonight and Sunday generally fair; cooler tonight.

Texas: Tonight and Sunday generally fair; light variable winds on the coast.

West Texas: Tonight and Sunday generally fair.

Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina: Generally fair and continued hot Sunday and Monday.

Alabama: Generally fair tonight and showers Sunday.

Kentucky: Showers tonight, Sunday fair, cooler.

Tennessee: Local showers tonight or Sunday.

Mississippi: Generally fair tonight and Sunday, except local showers tonight or Sunday, somewhat cooler tonight.

Trading very light, market steady; seems to be some demand on any sort of spot. The low temperatures in the southwest are encouraging the bears to some extent.

High temperature map below was principal cause for buying, there is talk of hot winds causing premature opening of bolls, rather forced.

Government gives temperature average for Texas at 99, with 104 reported from Abilene, 102 at Greer; one station 102, and one station 104.

Friday's official records show high temperature average of 99 degrees for the Texas-Oklahoma district 102; Atlanta and Montgomery districts 100; Illinois and Missouri 100; Oklahoma district 102. Such temperatures are injurious, but fortunately the forecasts are for slightly cooler weather coming over Sunday.—Kofler.

Dallas wires: Reports deterioration by shedding; weevil reported in all sections.

New Orleans—The market here dropped after close of New York on wills on hot belt advance in New York is forced. Damage to crop more imaginary than real. Short interest still small. Good prospect for cooler weather over Sunday.—Kofler.

The market started higher on over-night buying orders, but met profit-taking selling by local traders; from the early high point prices declined 5 points on the Georgia detailed was posted showing over 100 degrees at 22 points. Gwathmey & Co., Logan & Bryan, Wells Fargo and Hicks were the leading buyers. Baruch sold 50 January, and there was a fair trade in July for want of buyers and a rumor of rain in Texas. The market will be governed by the Sunday temperatures and as it still a very narrow and professional affair, it will be easily influenced either way for 12 to 15 points.

Galveston reports stock reduction of 3,976.

STOCK GOSSIP

Bow Jones summary:

Weather map, temperature and trainment agree to keep peace until arrival in New York of board of medium men Monday. Hope banking committee defeats amendment to prohibit national banks from making loans to brokers. If board directors are interested. Southern railway sold $1,750,000 5 per cent equipment trust notes. Extensive industrial interests affected. Twenty active rails advanced .64.

Think this week will still continue. Favor buying the active issues like Union Pacific and Reading. Hear Copper stocks, Missouri Pacific and steel on a purchase.—Potter.

GRAIN GOSSIP

Chicago Inter Ocean says:

Wheat is not looked on as a merchandising proposition. Traders expect to see any good advance met with free selling by the country, while dealers look for a good export business, so that prices are not expected to fluctuate materially unless there should be a weather market. Many of the big traders even up each day, and the general action is too restricted to swing the local trade as a whole had a little corn bought at the start yesterday and it looked much better, and bearish talk fell short on the rains.

Bartlett, Frazier & Co. say: Wheat—Market shows a steadier tone with decidedly lighter country offerings and we feel that until the crop is out of danger from rust in the northwest it is past prices are not to rule steady.

Corn—Looks for a steady market and until the belt as a whole secures a good weltering, down will be resisted. Shorts and sales are likely to prove more or less troublesome.

Oats—Crop yields are still promising and new buying of an investment character and also less confidence on the part of the sellers.

Provisions—Trade still acts strong.

Snow wires from Kansas City: Across Missouri, in condition lying about the river, corn prospects very much mixed. Development of small bugs, chinch bugs, army worms and fly pests permanently stunted. Precast but weather has done no appreciable damage. Soil is in fine condition. In the western half of the state the outlook is very favorable, and conditions as to moisture are not expected to fluctuate materially from now on, as it is

JOURNAL WANT AD' Horoscope

JULY 20.

If this is your birthdate, you partake of the characteristics of the two planetary signs, which govern this birthdate and that which is close at hand. The planet now coming into dominance is the Sun, the sign is Leo and, while you are here under the sign of Cancer and dominated by the planet Luna, you are more strongly a Leo person than a Cancer native.

This is an excellent period for your success. You may undertake new ventures with hope and obtain good results if you use them in mid-summer. The spring is not a specially fortunate time for business changes for the people of your birthdate.

A knowledge of the power of mental domination will greatly assist you and help you out of many seeming difficulties. Live more in the spirit and less in material things.

The Journal-Want Ads are favored that feature the sale of household goods, store merchandise and farm produce. Good paying substitution work in offices, stores and factories may be found through Journal Want Ad.

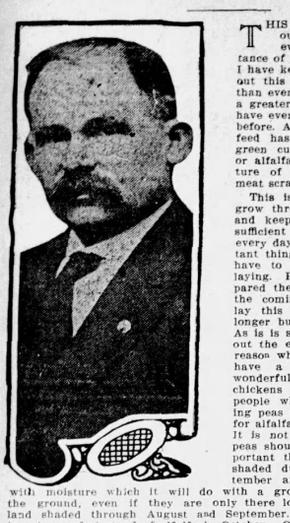
POULTRY, PIGEONS AND LIVE STOCK

Green Alfalfa as Food for Poultry



THIS season has more thoroughly convinced me than ever before the importance of alfalfa as a poultry food. I have kept my chickens throughout this summer at less expense than ever and they have produced a greater quantity of eggs than I have ever known them to produce before. A larger per cent of their feed has practically been either green cut alfalfa fed every day or alfalfa leaves fed with a mixture of shorts, corn meal and meat scraps.

This is one product that will grow throughout the entire year and keep, green and furnish a sufficient quantity or green food every day, one of the very important things that chickens must have to keep them continually laying. People who have not prepared themselves to plant alfalfa the coming fall should not delay this important work a day longer but should do so at once. As is is so easily grown throughout the south there is no reason why every one should not have a splendid patch or this wonderful food to give their chickens daily. A great many people who have delayed planting peas on the land preparatory for alfalfa should even do so now. It is not so important that the peas should mature but it is important that the land should be shaded during August and September and allow it to fill up with moisture which it will do with a growing crop of peas on the ground, even if they are only there long enough to keep the land shaded through August and September. It will enable you to get a perfect stand of alfalfa in October. Of course it is far better to inoculate the pea seed as they will grow much faster and will have the ground in better condition for a perfect stand of alfalfa to be secured in October. If this can not be done by distributing a few hundred pounds of dirt off of an alfalfa field just ahead of sowing your seed in October it will answer the same purpose and will enable you to get a perfect stand.

Anyone keeping chickens who has ever tried feeding this alfalfa one time will never be without it again, and it is the only thing by which the poultrymen of this country can have as a substitute of cheap and a valuable food that they can produce themselves. A little booklet telling exactly how to successfully grow this plant can be had for a 2c stamp by writing to me. I will gladly send this book to any address. With the production of an abundance of this rich and valuable food the southern breeders can now keep chickens at a profit that heretofore we have not had an opportunity of doing. Therefore, you should not delay a day longer and make these preparations now. Many people think to kept chickens at a loss by having all of their feed to buy can keep them at a profit now when it could not be done before we found out about this most valuable food. It is surprising what a difference it makes at the end of the month in your feed bill when an abundance of this is had, and the beauty of it is that anyone in any part of the south can grow enough to feed a large number of chickens on a small space.

The most valuable mixture of poultry feeds that are sold on the market today are largely composed of ground alfalfa products, but that we can grow in Georgia contains more leaf and has a far greater feeding value than any we have been able to buy heretofore. It is going to revolutionize the keeping of poultry throughout the south and will enable many who have made a failure of this industry heretofore to keep their birds now at a profit. Eggs are sure to be high and scarce the coming fall and winter and the man who has an abundance of this food will be enabled to furnish eggs throughout the entire year when before now he has only had them in quantities during a part of the season. If you keep poultry you can not afford longer to do without a good patch of alfalfa and as it does far better planted in September and October than in the spring you should prepare a place for it now.

Yours very truly,

Geo. L. Rainey

FORTUNE TELLING

WE OFFER the corner of Twelfth street and Crescent avenue, 150x150 feet, alley on side and in rear. On this corner are four well built six-room cottages. The total rental is $48 per month. This property is within 300 feet of Peachtree street. As far as this piece of land is concerned, the owner can become a FORTUNE teller, not in the sense of predicting fates, but in spending of his own land. The "FUTURE" of Peachtree street and the adjoining property has been assured, so there is good to look to the future. The PRESENT is the time that interests us most. The equity of good corners in this section is emphasized by the fact that large apartment houses are on almost every similar corner in this neighborhood. What better investment could a person want than this corner? These houses make good homes and will always stay rented. Why not buy a valuable corner, live in a nice, comfortable home, and collect your rents which is on all sides of you, and later, when the FUTURE brings true the value and advancement predicted now in the PRESENT, you can congratulate yourself on being a truth-ful FORTUNE teller; or, in other words, an owner of good Atlanta real estate. Price, $48,000; reasonable terms.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Judge-Newman, in Court Opinion, Pays Tribute to Peachtree Values—Three Expensive Residences Nearly Finished at East Lake—New Business Building for Decatur—Ansley Park and Other Sales—Auction Sale at Marietta

"This considerable profit was due to the unprecedented rise in value of Peachtree property, which is a matter of common knowledge in Atlanta and which everybody admits."—Judge W. T. Newman, of the federal court, in a written opinion handed down yesterday.

In the above words the United States court for the northern district of Georgia went on record yesterday in a testimonial as to the value of Peachtree street property.

Judge Newman, of that court, wrote those words in a decision he made in the case of E. D. Thomas, trustee vs. C. L. Truitt, H. A. and R. A. Almand, L. B. Jackson and others. Mr. Thomas had charged that the defendants had fraudulently transferred property which should have been subjected to the claims of certain of the Truitt creditors.

One of the parcels affected was a lot in the Crass subdivision on Peachtree street, just south of Currier. This property was bought by R. A. Almand from C. L. Truitt, and Mr. Thomas argued that the transfer was a family affair, and not a legitimate sale, pointed out that the property last year brought $1,000 a front foot, and that Mr. Almand had actually put less than half that amount in it.

Judge Newman, however, held that

FOR SALE—FARMS FOR SALE—FARMS

CO-OPERATIVE FARMING

Learn Something---Make Something

TWENTY MILES from Atlanta, railroad station on place, is a farm of 671 acres—300 acres in high state of cultivation. The finest farm in North Georgia for growing fruits, vegetables, corn, cotton, alfalfa, etc., and for raising fine horses, mules, cattle and poultry.

Owner wants to sell to twenty men at sacrifice price, including live stock and implements now on twelve-horse farm. More than half the number already secured. Among them one of the most successful and scientific farmers and cattle and poultry raisers in Georgia, who has contracted to generally supervise the entire place.

This farm has wonderful and natural advantages for developing a community club, where families can spend the summer at small cost and gain instruction in farming and raising live stock.

We need eight more men. Cost will be small, but will yield handsome returns. If you are interested, phone Main 4123, or write to Co-Op. Farm, 66 W. Mitchell St.

large profits were the rule on Peachtree. He decided in favor of the defendants.

EAST LAKE RESIDENCES

East Lake is getting to be a colony of fine residences. Three houses of the $15,000 class are now being completed out there, and others are being planned or work has been started on them.

W. T. Gentry's new home, which will cost about $15,000 and will occupy a ten-acre tract at East Lake Drive and Tupelo street, is now nearly completed.

Scott Hudson has nearly finished his $15,000 house at the East Lake Drive and Fair street, and Joseph Richardson is completing his $15,000 home on Skiff avenue, near Morgan street.

BUILDING IN DECATUR.

Ground has been broken for a two-story brick building at Decatur. It is located on McDonough street adjoining the city hall, and will be occupied by George Brothers with a wholesale and retail department store. The building fronts fifty feet on the east side of McDonough street and will cost about $6,000.

The sale of the lot for this building set a new price for McDonough street property, the fifty feet bring $3,000 or $60 per front foot. The site was formerly occupied with a livery stable.

AUCTION SALE

J. R. Jackson has made a subdivision of the McCravy farm of 150 acres at Turner's crossing, two miles south of Marietta, on the trolley line, and will offer 18 small acreage tracts at auction at the court house in Marietta on September 2.

REAL ESTATE SALES

Papers went to record yesterday transferring from L. W. Gray to Mrs. E. T. Atkinson a residence property on the Prado for $8,250. The property is on the north side of the Prado on a lot 75x136, being lot 5 of block 18.

This week the Bedingfield Agency sold through J. E. Pritchett to F. C. Word, with the Southern railroad, a six-acre tract out on Mount Gilead road in the McKenzie subdivision, for $1,623 and the following day he was offered a $500 profit on his purchase, which he refused.

HARRIS WHITE ELECTED

Harris G. White was elected president of the Atlanta Real Estate board at its monthly meeting and dinner at Durant's last night. Other officers were elected as follows:

First vice president, John J. Woodside; second vice president, S. B. Turman; secretary, Van B. Smith; treasurer, W. H. Inman. The following six directors were elected to serve until 1914: Forrest Adair, W. A. Foster, S. L. Dallas, G. M. McKinnon, J. H. Ewing and J. W. Dobbins. The following six will serve until 1915: Charles P. Glover, A. S. Hook, Edgar Watt, T. H. Gw. A. J. West and S. E. Davidson. The following were elected to serve as the appraisement committee: R. E. Cochran, T. C. Hohnes, W. L. DuPree, H. W. Dillon, Fitzhugh Knox, R. R. Otis. One more will be appointed by the president owing to a resignation.

A vote of thanks was extended to Charles P. Glover, the retiring officer, and a change in the by-laws was made, allowing six directors of the twelve to be elected for a term of two years.

The board also went on record as favoring the amendment of the bill requiring all sinking funds to be invested in municipal, state and government bonds so as to allow a part of these funds to be put in real estate mortgages. President White appointed Messrs. S. B. Turman and W. A. Foster a committee to confer with the legislative committee on the sinking fund measure.

Both Messrs. Glover and White made speeches. Mr. Glover was congratulated on his services to the board and Mr. White on the honor given him.

PROTECTION DEMANDED FOR AMERICAN PROPERTY

Senator Fall Asks Definition of Government's Foreign Relations Policy

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Secretary Bryan had an executive conference with the senate foreign relations committee at the capitol today and while the Mexican situation was touched upon, it was said the primary object of the meeting was to consider renewals of arbitration treaties with Great Britain, France and other countries.

Renewals were delayed some time ago on objection of Senator Chamberlain to the treaty with Great Britain. He feared a renewal might compel the United States to arbitrate the Panama canal tolls dispute.

President Wilson has expressed to Chairman Bacon a wish that the new treaties be ratified and Secretary Bryan has predicted they would be.

Later when the senate assembled Senator Fall sprung a mild sensation by asking the adoption of a resolution defining a policy of the government regarding foreign relations. It declared that every American citizen and his property everywhere must be protected by the United States.

Senator Fall has been a keen critic of the government's Mexican policy.

The resolution finally went over because of objections by Senator Kern and other Democrats.

Field Guns Are Repaired For Seige of Guaymas

DOUGLAS, Ariz., July 19.—The two largest of the eight field guns captured from the federals by the constitutionalists have been repaired and are on the way to the front today to be used in the siege of Guaymas.

General Obregon still is suffering from a recent sunstroke and at a meeting of constitutionalist leaders olonel Alverado was chosen temporary commander.

Federal advices today confirmed the report that General Pedro Ojeda had been superseded as commander at Guaymas by General Bravo. Ojeda has gone south on the gunboat Morelos, which, according to other reports, took part today in the defense of Mazatlan against insurgent attacks.

Baldwin Court Adjourns

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., July 19.—Baldwin county's superior court term has been adjourned to August 11, at which time the wheels of justice will begin to grind. The adjournment was taken to allow the farmers to continue crop cultivation, as the season was late.

ice in the trial be drawn entirely from the grand jury list of some 1,000 names instead from the petit jury list of about 6,000 names, was made Saturday by Solicitor General H. M. Dorsey.

"I do not believe that the grand jury will indict Conley for the murder after it knows the true state of affairs, any more than I believe that the judges of the superior court will accede to the request of the defense that the jurors to try Frank be drawn from the grand jury," declared the solicitor.

At 2 o'clock, when Solicitor Dorsey made his charge, it was impossible to reach any of the attorneys for the defense of Frank to secure a statement from them.

SUMMER TRIAL DREADED

Both the state and the defense are going steadily ahead with preparations for the Frank trial, which has been set for Monday week. The trial, which is expected to last from two to three weeks, is dreaded by the attorneys, the witnesses, court attaches and others, who will have to be in the court room. It is certain that hundreds of curious people will crowd into the court room, and a repetition of the famous Grace trial, when every moment it was expected that people would be overcome by the stifling heat, is very probable.

Judge L. S. Roan has already announced that he will not hold the trial in the stuffy court room on the fourth floor of the Thrower building, where the Grace trial was held, but the court room on the first floor of the old city hall, where the Frank trial will be staged, is very little better.

HEAT WILL BE TERRIFIC.

Court attaches are making every possible preparation for the comfort of the jurors, the witnesses, the attorneys and others interested, but on account of the intense heat of this season of the year, the trial is being anticipated with terror.

It was learned Saturday that the list of 150 veniremen, from which twelve jurors to decide Frank's fate will be chosen, will be drawn by the judge of the superior court on next Thursday.

Judge L. S. Roan will probably be out of the city at that time, and the drawing of the veniremen will fall to one of the judges in the civil division of the superior court, probably Judge John T. Pendleton.

The defense of Frank will make a statement Saturday evening in reply to the attack by William M. Smith, attorney for Conley, on the grand jury because Monday's meting has been called over the protest of the solicitor.

CONLEY'S LAWYER TALK.

Following the formal announcement in Friday's Jurnal that W. D. Beattie, foreman, has called a meeting of the grand jury Monday to reconsider the indictment of James Conley for the Mary Phagan murder, a sensational development is a statement to the public from William M. Smith.

Mr. Smith, who is the attorney representing the negro Conley, intimates that an unseen force is behind the unprecedented action of the grand jury, and says in his statement:

"When the grand jury I would like for them (the grand jury) to first investigate the movement that seems to have stirred their enthusiasm."

In the course of his statement Mr. Smith pays a high tribute to Solicitor Dorsey, ad attacks the grand jury for calling Monday's meeting over his protest.

SMITH'S STATEMENT

Mr. Smith's statement is as follows:

"I notice Foreman Beatie has called the grand jury to meet Monday. When they meet I would like for them to first investigate the movement that seems to have stirred their enthusiasm.

I wish the press could afford to publish what I have the nerve to say about this latest move.

"If they direct. I do not doubt they will indict Jim all right. If they get up inspiration enough to run over the state's sworn counsel in getting to *gether they can see their way to in*diet.

"Jim Conley has been dealing fairly with the state of Georgia. His story has been an open book to the sworn, trusted prosecuting officers of this state. He is not skulking coward-like behind the protection of iron bars, nor have his lips been sealed with tomb-like silence, until he can spring suddenly in a court, a well-prepared statement, which the state has no opportunity to investigate and disprove. Conley allows himself grilled, cross-examined and unceasingly questioned by the representatives of the state. He is talking and talking now. Conley says to the state of Georgia, here is my story, investigate it, sift it, and prove it a lie, if you can.

"What more could the grand jury ask? Conley is giving the state a square deal; Conley is remaining a voluntary prisoner, and no honest citizen doubts that he will be held to account for his part in this terrible tragedy.

LEAVE IT ALONE, HE SAYS.

"If the grand jurors do not want to please Frank and his friends, if they do not want to help clear Frank they had better leave this alone, for the present. The good people of this county elected Hugh Dorsey as the solicitor general. Under the law, this makes him the legal adviser of the grand jury. There is not a business man on the grand jury that does not follow in his own affairs the advice of the lawyer of character and ability, to whom he goes for counsel. Let the grand jury do with the public business what they would do with their own matters, follow the advice of the sworn representative of the good people of this county.

"Does the grand jury think their legal judgment or their personal integ*rity above that of our solicitor general,* or do they doubt the professional or private character of Hugh Dorsey? The people of this county know that Dorsey is straight; that in this case he is fighting brutal money and influence. I know that he is standing by what he thinks right, and with constant threats thrown at him that they will defeat him at the next election and with every handicap thrown in his way in the discharge of his duty in prosecuting a white man who has wealth and influence. It is the supreme test of a man's good character. and I glory in the fact that Hugh Dorsey has those high and honorable traits of his good father and mother that enables him to know the right, and, knowing the right, to dare to do it.

"WILLIAM M. SMITH."

PINKERTONS' CHANGE.

The Journal's exclusive story of Friday telling that the Pinkerton detectives, who long held to the theory that Leo M. Frank was guilty of the murder which occurred April 26 in the factory of which he was superintendent, now believe in his innocence and, in the guilt of Conley, has occasioned wide comment.

Chief Detective N. A. Lanford has issued a statement in which he says that in his opinion the theory of the Pinkertons will have rendered the state valuable aid in working the murder case, has changed.

Harry Scott, field chief of the Pinkertons, however, still refuses to commit himself.

"The Pinkertons at the coming trial.

City Fathers Wanted Legislature to Pass It Just as They Drew It

The passage of the new city charter in the house of representatives Friday as amended by Representative Blackburn, was over the protest of the council members who appeared before the judiciary committee.

Representative Blackburn's amendment cut out the initiative, referendum and recall and limited the power of the recorder to a maximum sentence of thirty days and a maximum fine of $100.

Council members are not opposed to the charte, is being their own creation, but they are not pleased with the amendments which the Fulton county delegation offered and which the house passed. They wanted the charter to pass just as they drew it.

Those who protested at the time were City Attorney James L. Mayson, Alderman James R. Nutting and Councilman Claude C. Mason.

The charter will go to the senate early next week in all probability, and opinoin seems to point to the senate concurring in the action of the house.

The charter will be submitted to the people of Atlanta in September for the ratification or rejection.

or at any other that may result in the case, will *give fair and impartial test*mony," he said. "Whether our testimony affects Frank or the negro is no concern of ours."

Further than that Scott would not talk, sidestepping all questions relating to his theory.

The report that the Pinkertons are trailing W. H. Mincey, who claims in an affidavit that Conley confessed the crime to him, is erroneous.

Mincey is known to be at Richmond, Dade county, Georgia, where he is now teaching in a district school.

A Journal correspondent reached Mincey Friday afternoon, following a report that he had disappeared, and the teacher-solicitor said that he would certainly be on hand at Frank's trial and at any other time that he may be needed.

He maintains that Conley told him in the afternoon of April 26 that he had killed a girl.

Dear Sir:—Having been a patron of your school for several years, I wish to say that it is one of the best schools I have ever known, and, any man, having sons to be educated, and form correct habits in their early years, can not do better than to send them to this school.

My third boy, as you know, is now winding up his third year with you, and I do not believe that anything I could have done for any one of the three, could have built them up physically and morally better than sending them to the G. M. A.

Wishing the school success in the future, I am as ever,
